The Past Meets The Present

It is hard to imagine that a school with one thousand boys could have grown out of those humble beginnings in the autumn of 1921 in the basement of the Erie Cathedral. At that time Bishop John Mark Gannon assembled the pastors of Erie's twelve Catholic parishes to discuss his dream of starting a Catholic high school for boys. He saw the new school as the training ground for building young Christian men.

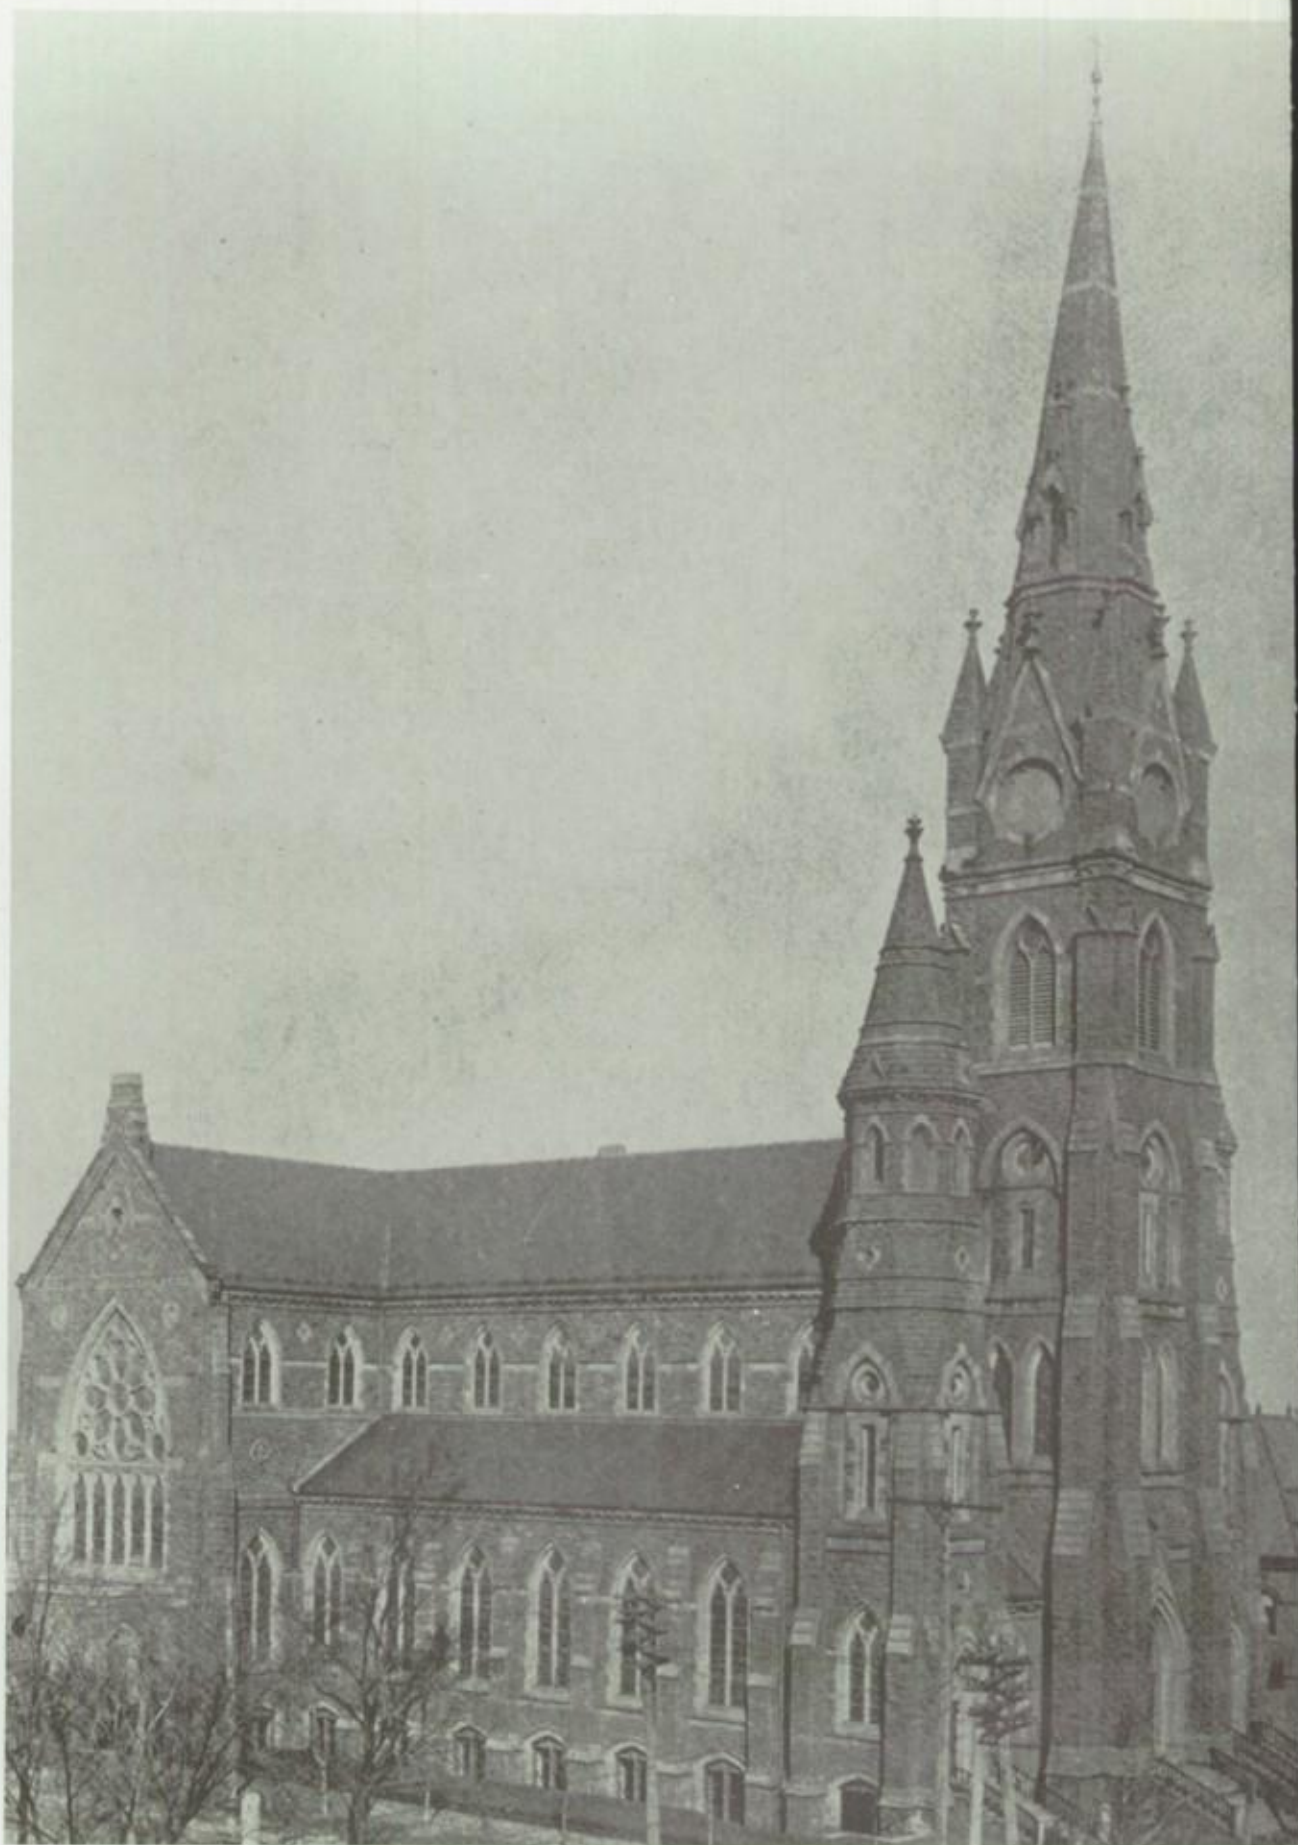

With the Bishop's appointment of the first Headmaster, Reverend Joseph J. Wehrle, the remodeling of the Cathedral basement began. When the doors opened in September 1921, one hundred boys were admitted. The faculty consisted of four priests and one layman. Of these one hundred boys, only forty-two emerged four years later as the first graduating class, the Class of 1925. Among the graduates was our own Bishop Alfred M. Watson.

The Downey Building, located on Ninth Street directly in front of the present main office, was purchased in the early 1920's by Bishop Gannon. It housed the administrative offices, the science labs and the original library.

In the school year of 1941-42 when Father Wehrle left Prep to assume the duties of President of the newly founded Gannon College, Bishop Gannon named Father Miller to be Prep's second Headmaster.

As the years passed and enrollment increased, Prep outgrew its facilities. The construction of the new school began on October 14, 1941, when Father Miller broke ground; a year later Bishop Gannon laid its cornerstone.

In 1944 the third Headmaster, Monsignor Robert McDonald, came to Prep after Father Miller was transferred to St. John's. With Monsignor McDonald's move into the office of Headmaster, Prep's sports began to move. During the 1950's the school flexed its muscles, and the Ramblers began to dominate almost every major sport. The athletic program grew so well that it achieved state championships in basketball and wrestling.

When the new annex opened in 1944, it housed twenty-two classrooms, science labs, school offices, gym, pool and library. In 1954 a new wing provided fifteen additional classrooms, physics labs, health suite, typing room and an auditorium with a seating capacity of twelve hundred. The most recent and final addition to Cathedral Prep was the science wing. Begun in 1965 it provided additional classrooms, science labs and a band room.

Each new visible addition to the physical complex pointed to a more important development: Prep was growing from within.

With increased enrollment the physical plant of Prep also expanded. The north-side addition completed in 1942 provided needed classroom and office space.

The Old Downey Mansion, purchased in the early 1920's by Bishop Gannon, served as the first Cathedral Prep School. In addition to the classrooms the building also provided an underground garage for students.

Growth From Within

Was Prep an anachronism in the twentieth century? An outsider looking in might say yes, but the young men who passed through its halls belied such an assumption. One of the reasons why young men came to Prep was because of its unique Christian environment. Academically, there was less distraction in a class of boys than in a co-ed class. Contrary to popular belief, life was more balanced at Prep because priorities were established at the outset. Since there was no need to impress the opposite sex, students generally got down to the task at hand and left the socializing for after school hours.

A unique rapport between the faculty and students resulted in a congenial atmosphere. With the ratio of students to teachers being sixteen to one, students and teachers related to each other better.

At the same time discipline still played a key role in the school. The administration and faculty worked together to make up the disciplinary board which decided what to do with a student who accumulated too many demerits. A couple of Saturdays doing manual work at school rehabilitated most offenders. The strictness of this system kept everyone in line.

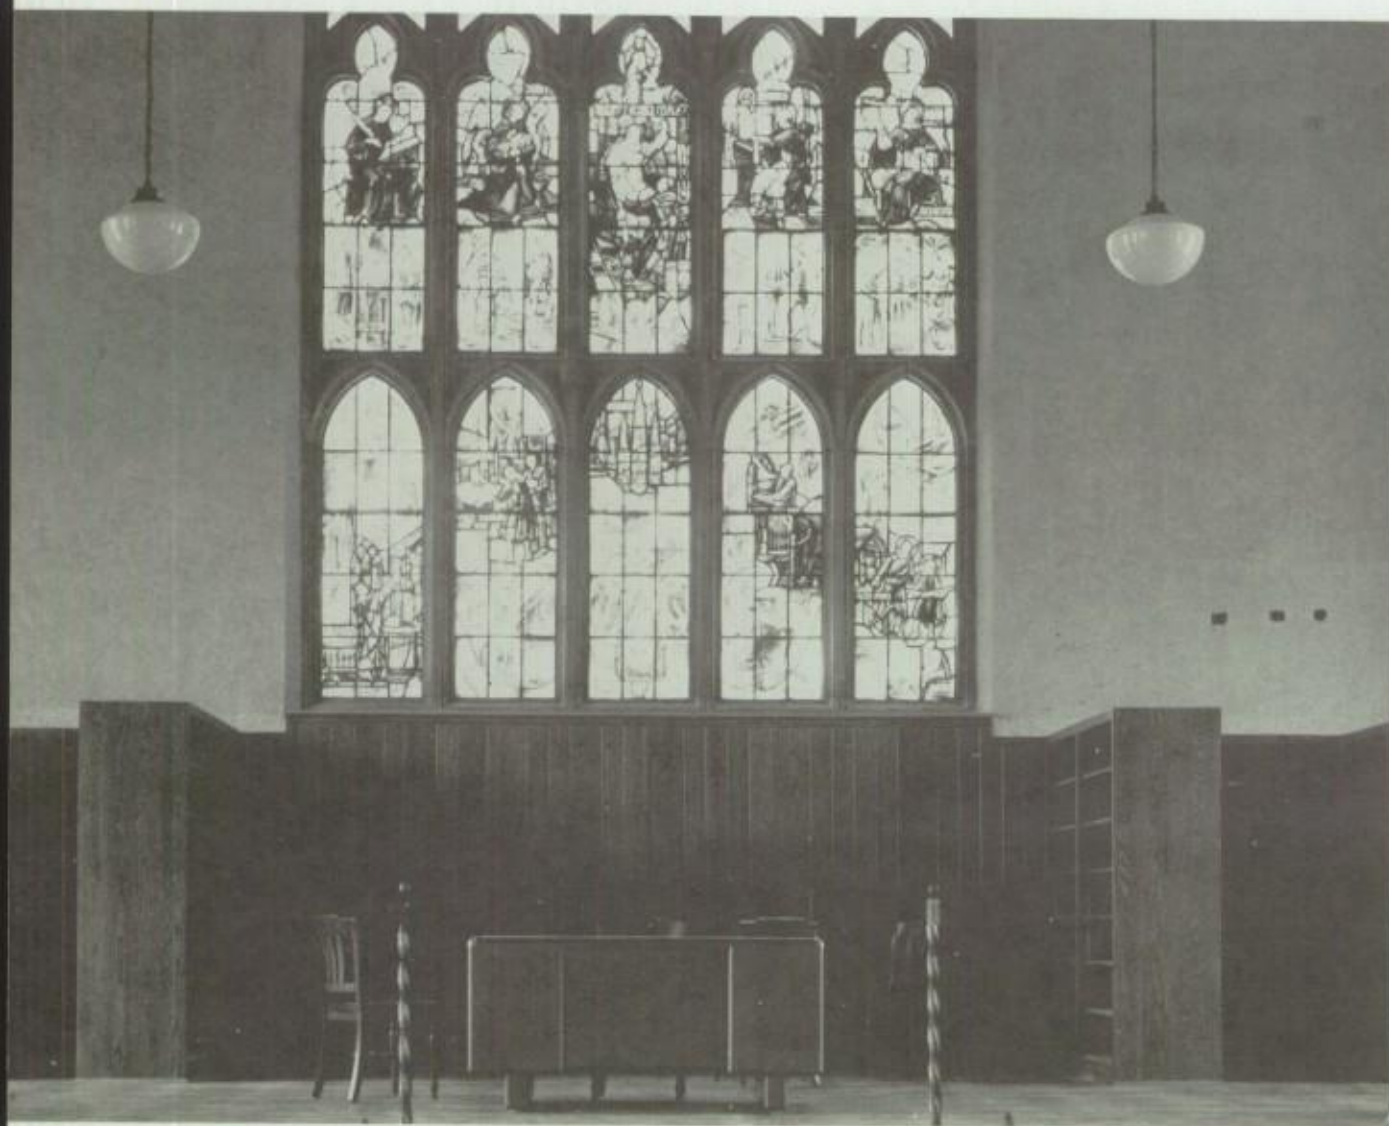

Over the years as enrollment increased, so did the faculty. Approximately sixty individuals dedicated themselves to teaching Prep's students this year. Priests and religious constituted over one-fourth of the faculty in 1982; the rest were laymen and laywomen. The role of all of them extended beyond the classroom. Some helped the student body by becoming club monitors or coaches. Some were advisors to different classes and their officers. The priests played a special role as counselors in and out of school.

As one would expect of a school born in the foundation of the Cathedral and still bearing its name, Prep had a unique concern for religious values. The weekly class Masses, the daily common prayer, the theology and guidance classes all bore witness to the central focus on faith. And the special experiences like Bishop Murphy's Mass on December 8 or the community efforts of TAC or the Thanksgiving prayer service and food collection were expressions of the values that Prep students shared with their faculty.

A healthy competition among the students in studies, sports and clubs was another aspect of Prep, and it kept the school in a high-spirited involvement. Students competed for highest honors every quarter, with the school pennant being awarded for the highest quality point average. Some students found additional competitive outlets in everything from chess and war games to gym and skiing.

Prep students of today found these shared experiences of education, discipline, worship and competition useful and essential for their inner growth. And their accomplishments, like those of earlier graduates, contributed to Prep's growth from without.

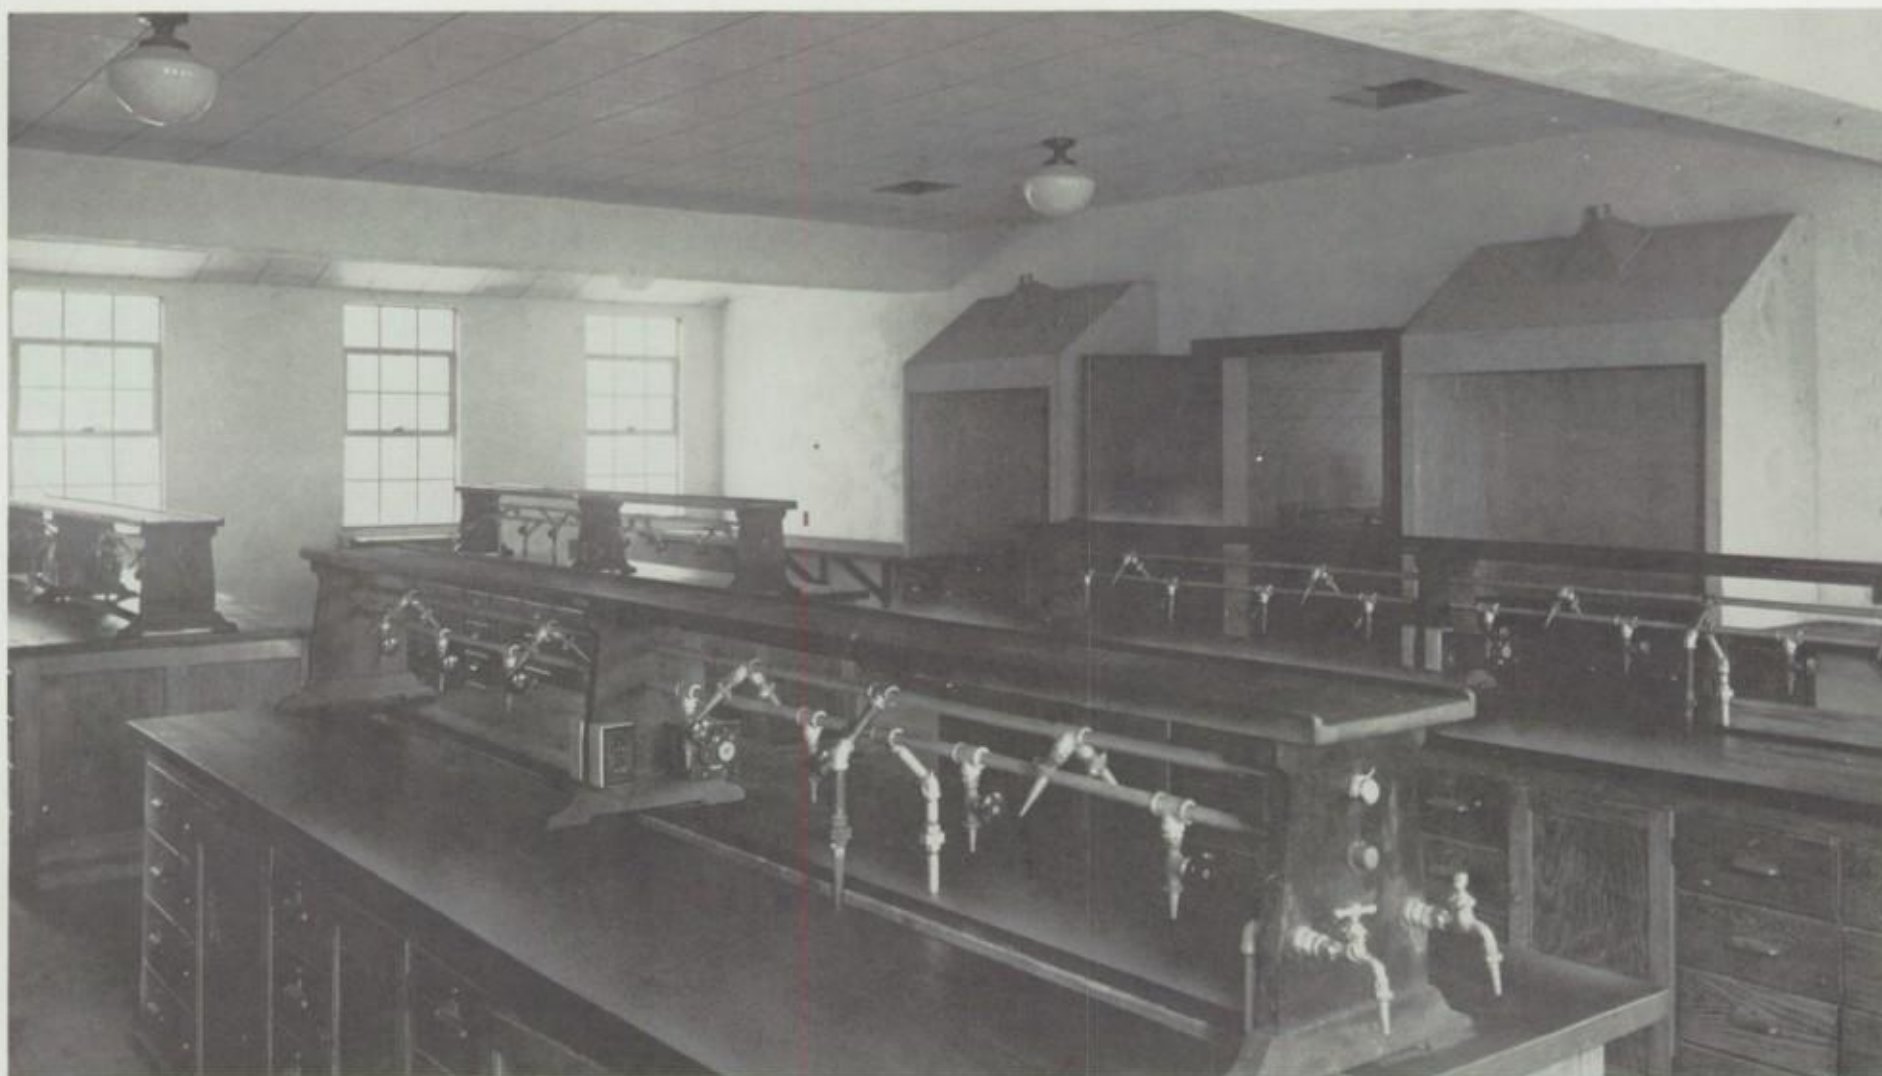

The Gothic elements of the Prep library give it a unique, monastic character. An appropriate atmosphere for a place where silence indicates the study and research being accomplished there.

Growth From Without

Prep measured its growth not merely by the size of the building, or by the inner enrichment of its students, but also by its impact on the community. This impact occurred first of all through Prep's reputation. From SAT scores to basketball scores, from forensic tournaments to band competition, people heard of its accomplishments and were impressed. They were impressed not simply by its victories but by the spirit of the Sixth Man cheering section. They admired the sportsmanship as well as the trophy, the effort as well as the achievement, the poise as well as the score.

Prep's impact on the Erie area was even more tangible in the person of its alumni. Each year it sent forth a fresh graduating class imbued with its spirit and ideals. And the graduates claimed honors in their chosen colleges and careers. They touched every trade and profession in the community and showed people first-hand what Prep was all about.

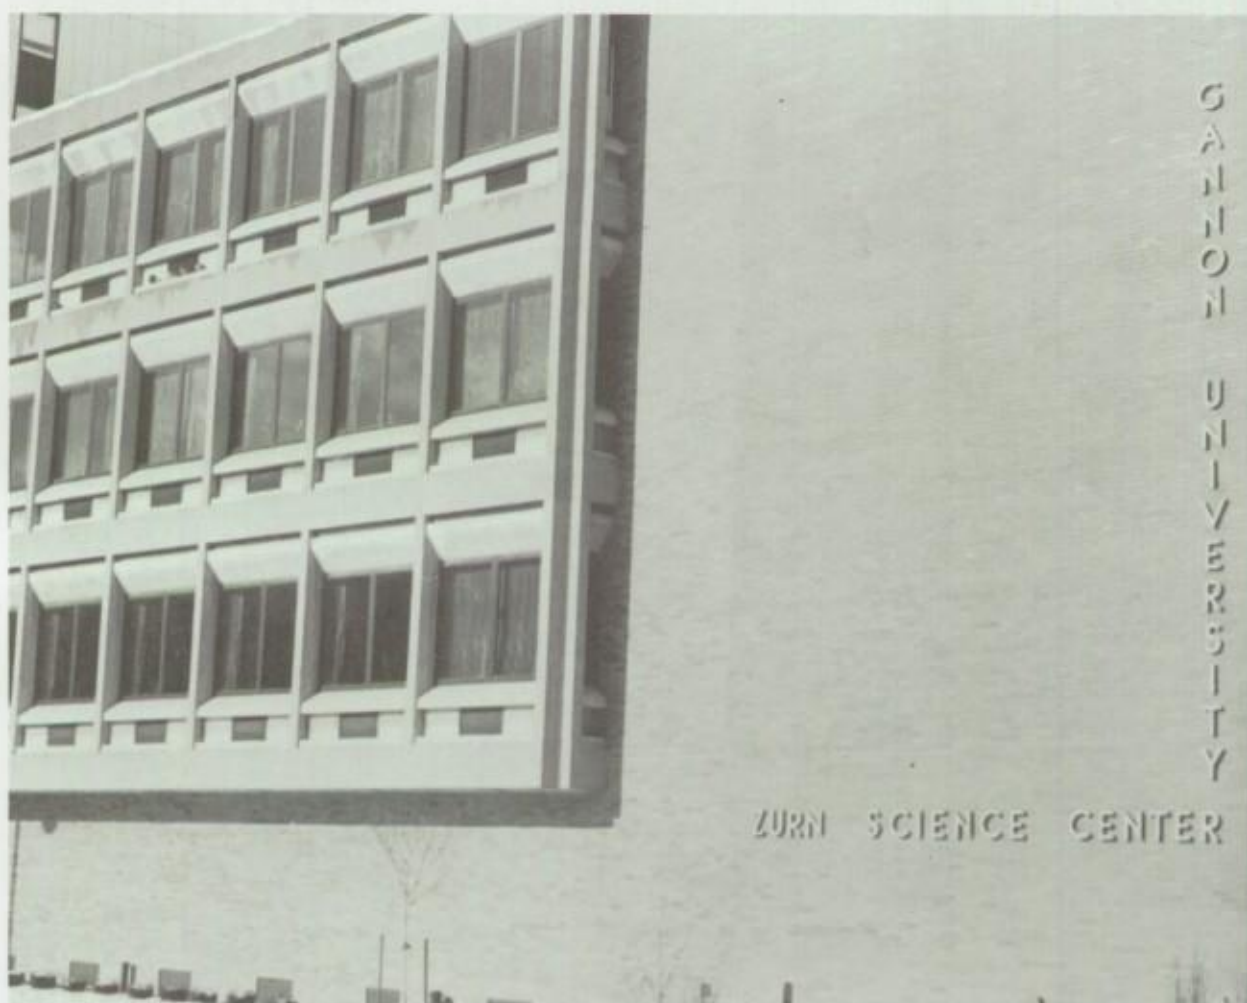

Even Prep's location suggested the impact it has made. Situated in the very heart of Erie it seemed to reach out to the businesses, the courtrooms, and the hospitals where its alumni increasingly made their contribution. In stretching its athletic activities to McDonald Field, and its counseling services to the Guidance Annex, Prep gave tangible signs of its reaching out into the community.

In its recruitment program Prep's interaction with the community came full circle. Because of Prep's reputation, its alumni and its location, new students were continually being attracted to the school. Contact with a faculty member or a student speaking in an area grade school, or a good impression from a Prep Open House often reinforced the attraction. This flow of new blood into Prep insured its growth from without and brought it to where it is today.

Gannon's Zurn Science Center provides an opportunity for Prep students to participate in courses on a college level.

Through these doors have passed some of Erie's greatest athletes. The athletic wing also provides students, who are not on an athletic team, with intramural sports and physical fitness.

The Prep bus, driven by Norman Lizotte, transports athletic teams to practice and to sports events. The bus is housed at the McDonald Fieldhouse.

The first Alumni Phone Drive was staged for one week in room 101. Students manned twenty phones to help raise money to defray Prep's operating expenses.

Where We Are . . .

Prep's commitment to excellence and to continued development never ceased. Under the tutelage of Father Dollinger it preserved the traditions of the past while forging new links for the future with its college neighbor and with its alumni.

Alumni would happily note that, like all their predecessors, today's Prep students felt a special pride in their school. It showed in the pep rallies and the cheering section at games. It echoed in the exuberance filling the corridors after school. It stirred the extra effort of the runner, the swimmer, and the ball carrier on Prep's teams. It gave poise to the debater, dedication to the TAC member and satisfaction to the writer on the Rambler. The student struggling in a demanding class or lingering after Mass for an extra prayer exhibited aspects of the same phenomenon. Some called it simply the Prep spirit.

Thanks to its affiliation with Gannon College, Prep offered its superior students the opportunity to earn college credits for certain courses taught at Prep by Prep faculty as part of the high school curriculum. Students enjoyed this benefit in such fields as math and English. As a further development, qualified Prep students participated for credit in courses on the Gannon campus, taught by Gannon professors. This policy opened the doors to courses like chemistry, political science, economics, western civilization, and accounting. This meant an early introduction into higher education, a chance for earlier college graduation and a large financial saving for the parents.

Father Dollinger's concern for the financial burden on parents motivated another kind of program. Fearing that rising tuition costs might price Prep out of reach of middle class families, and not wanting the school to become elitist, he sought the alumni's cooperation for a major fund drive. This project, formally launched in 1980, aimed at defraying operating expenses to keep tuition close to present levels.

With a deep respect for Prep's past achievements, with a closer bond of cooperation between Gannon (now proudly elevated to university status), and with the alumni rallying to support the fund drive, Father Dollinger and Prep look confidently to the future.

Prep's close alliance with Gannon College has enabled Prep students to participate in college level courses. By providing an atmosphere of higher learning, students are better prepared for their future.

After a long bus ride, the Sixth Man still has the strength to build a pyramid in support of the Basketball team during the Beaver Falls game.

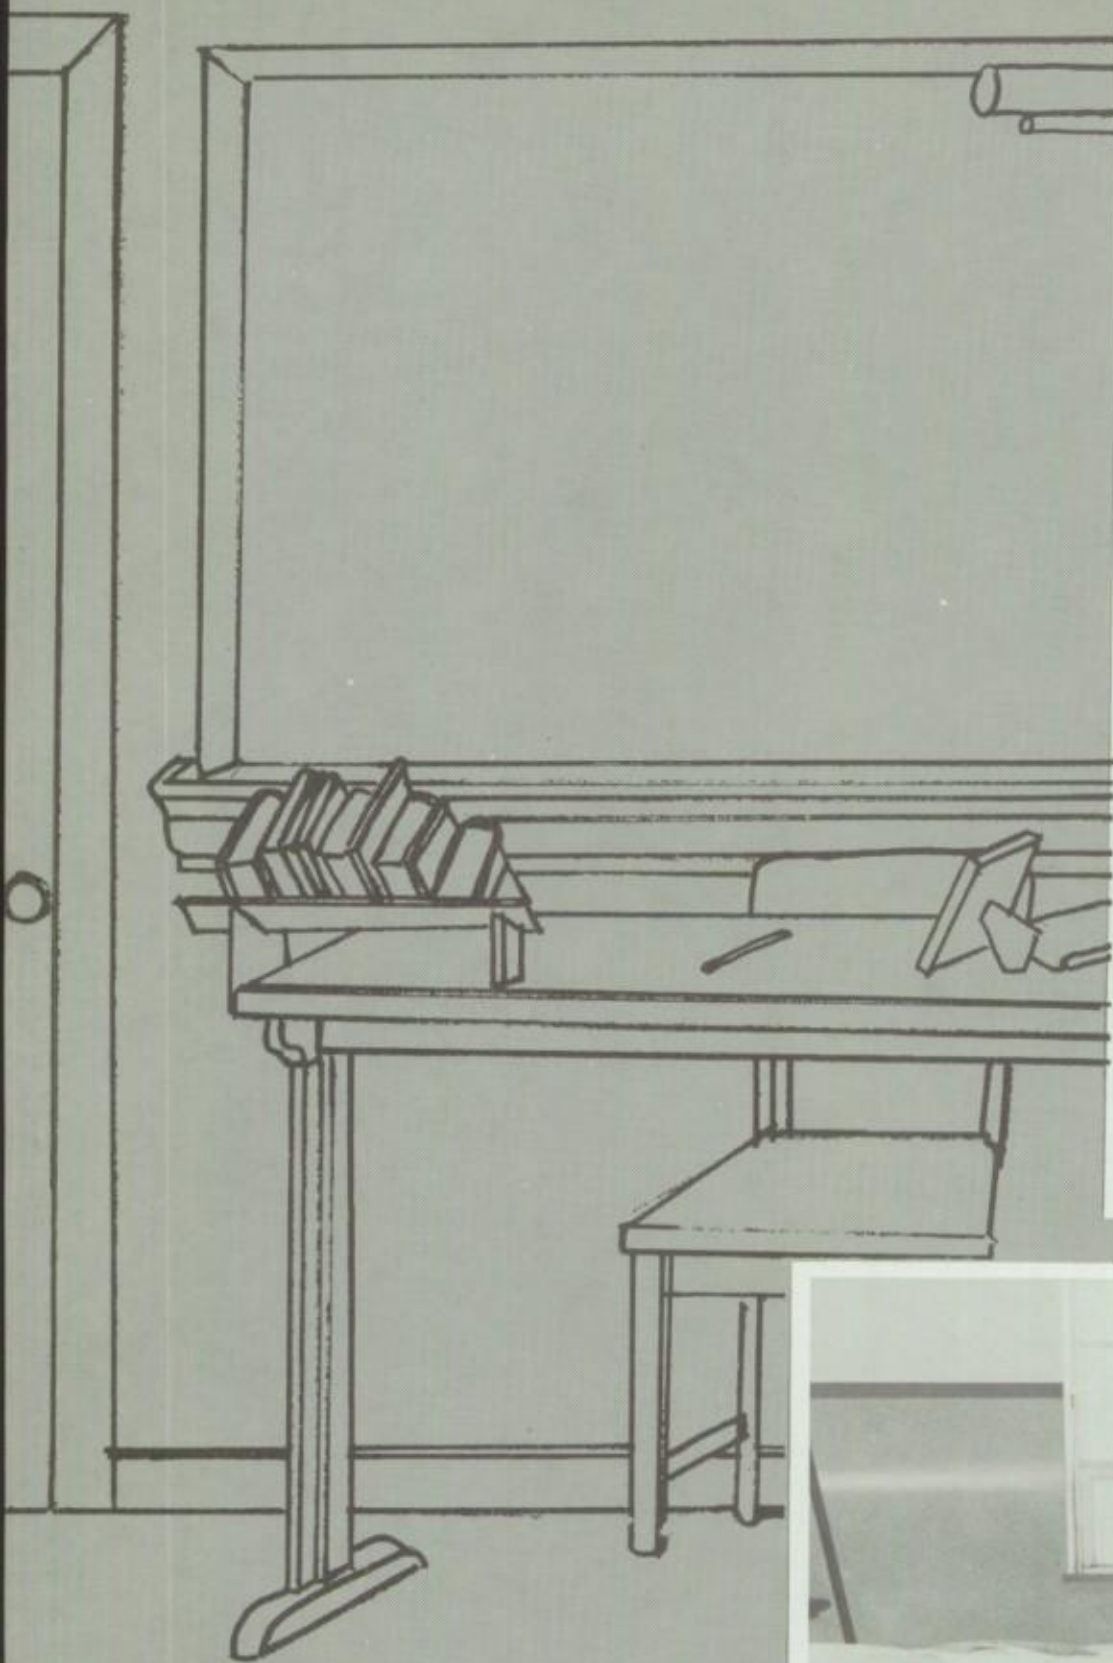

The "P" in Prep means that we have pride in our school. This "P" situated above the stage in the auditorium is a constant reminder of our tradition of excellence.

The entrance to the auditorium is embellished with the sign of our faith and our devotion to God.

ACADEMICS

Accent on Curriculum

Being a college-oriented school from its beginnings sixty years ago, Prep took a great deal of pride in its academic program. Academics were the very heart-beat of the students' life at Prep. Motivated by a dedicated faculty and challenged by an innovative curriculum, Prep students had every reason to strive for academic excellence. To complement its scholastic goals the school supported a strong, viable extracurricular program, giving the students the opportunity to reinforce the Christian principles and the factual knowledge imparted in the classroom. The language clubs, for example, worked diligently to sponsor trips abroad as a means of bringing the student and the culture together in a one-to-one encounter. Outside the school, faculty members engaged in artistic pursuits as a hobby or supplementary career which added to the enrichment which they brought with them into the classroom.

More Cause For Celebration

Besides the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of Prep, the school had additional cause for celebration: Father Dollinger's twenty-fifth anniversary as a priest.

Directly after his ordination, Father joined the Prep faculty for two years as a social studies teacher and director of the chorus. In 1960 he became part of the founding faculty at St. Mark's Seminary where he was the director of discipline. Eight years later the Bishop transferred Father to Venango Christian High School as a guidance counselor, a position he held for three years. When Father returned to Prep in the fall of 1971, Monsignor MacDonald appointed him Administrative Assistant. This position plus the many years as teacher, disciplinarian, and counselor proved to be the perfect apprenticeship for Prep's next Headmaster.

At the helm of Prep since 1972, Father Dollinger guided the school through calm and troubled waters. Under Father's command Prep's development continued. Through his endeavors affiliation with Gannon College was established by the Advanced Standing Program. Consequently students received college credits for certain courses taken either at Prep or at Gannon. Father also launched a successful campaign enlisting Prep alumni to defray the rising costs of keeping Prep a viable academic institution.

In these times when financial waves threatened to engulf private educational institutions, Father Dollinger's hand on the helm insured that Prep can still weather any tempest.

Prep's Key Strategists

Who makes a large corporation viable? The strategists, of course, those behind the operation whose planning and commitment provide the stimulus and coordination. So, too, the Assistant Headmasters at Cathedral Prep functioned as the catalysts who assisted Father Dollinger, the Headmaster, in the important business of keeping Prep operating smoothly.

Father Biebel, as Academic Director, assumed responsibility for all matters affecting the students' academic life. He supervised curriculum planning and gave impetus to the Advanced Standing Program.

As Director of Discipline Father Hahn went strictly by the book, the Student Handbook. He was sure to question the unwary student who appeared before him in dubious attire. And the student who was caught walking casually through the corridors was bound to have his hall pass checked. This kind of alertness to minor infractions kept the students aware of the exemplary behavior expected of them.

Father Nowak, although only in his second year as Guidance Director, soon adapted to the status of professional counselor. Through his efforts the Seniors received high caliber counseling in their search for career opportunities and college selection.

Bishop Backs 60 Year Tradition

Bishop Watson, actively involved with Prep since its beginning sixty years ago, proudly looked out the rectory window towards the school, with fond remembrances of years past. He has retired this year with the satisfaction of knowing that he left a lasting impression on the school.

The Bishop fondly remembered his days at Prep, both as a student and as a teacher/administrator. As a member of Prep's first graduating class, the Bishop recalled the occasion was marked by a "bang up party with a catered lunch." And with a twinkle in his eye confessed that even a future priest can flunk Latin!

Young Alfred Watson attended Villa College as did other seminarians before Gannon College existed. Never one to surrender to monotony, the Bishop-to-be occasionally took time out from his studies and could be found in the boiler room of the college, playing cards and nibbling on an occasional pie acquired from the Villa kitchens.

After his ordination Father Watson joined the faculty at Cathedral Prep as a teacher and as an assistant to the Headmaster, Father Miller.

With a grin, the Bishop recounted an incident that occurred when he was proctoring a study hall in what is now the cafeteria. Instead of studying, a young man tried to get away with throwing boots and hiding in the back of the room with the coats. The young Father Watson had his hands full with the students who, in the Prep tradition, tried to do anything but study in study hall.

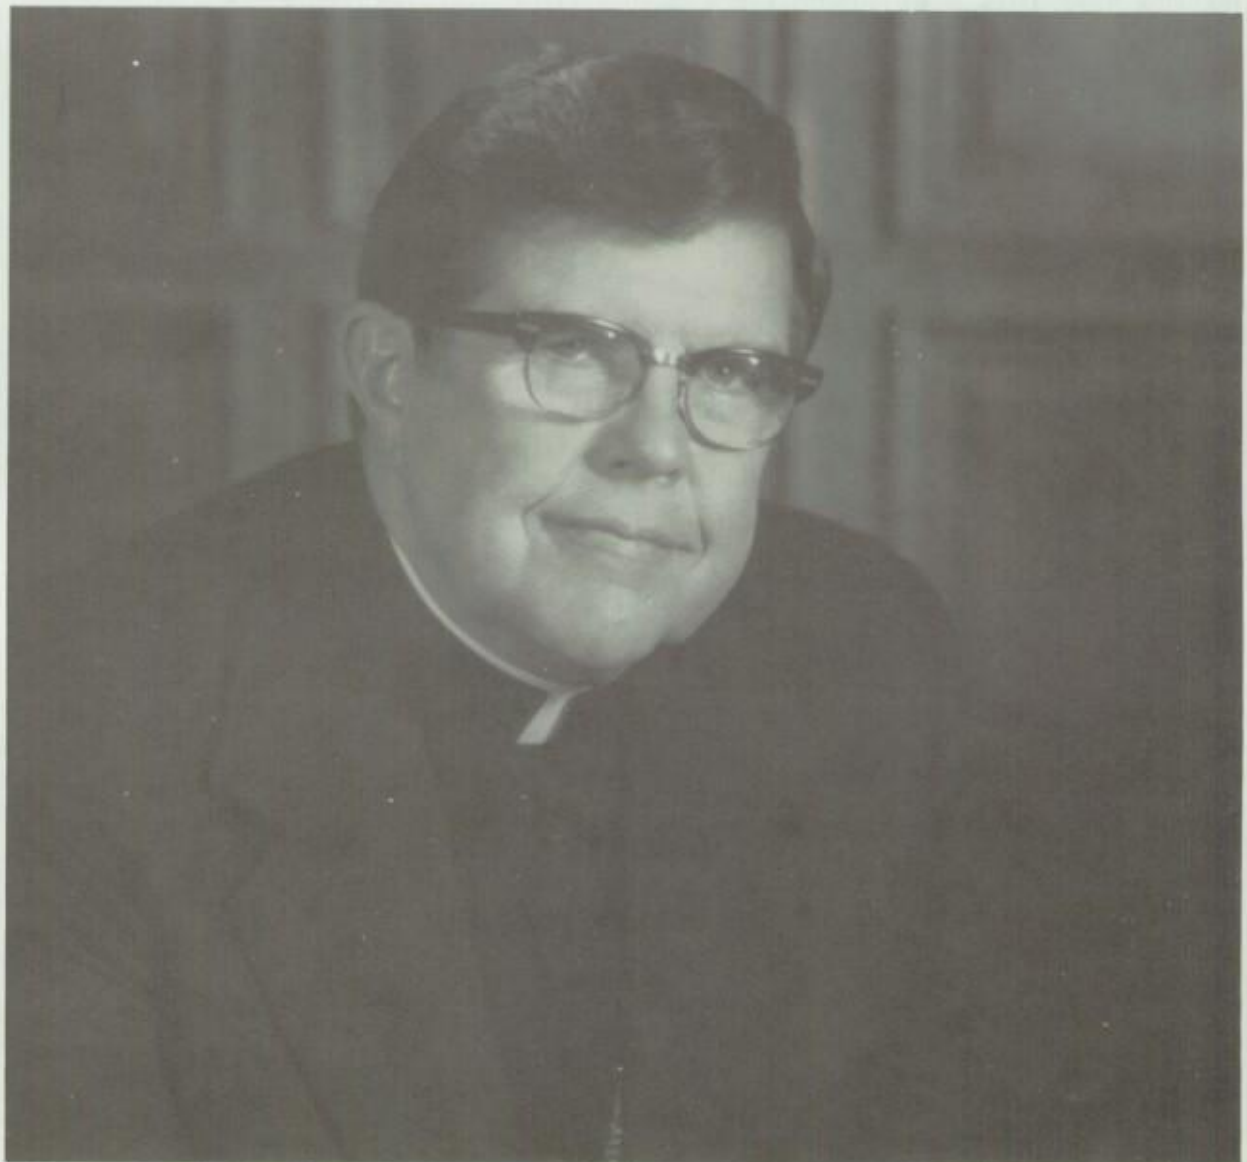

As time progressed, Father Watson became the secretary to Bishop Gannon. As a three-finger typist and a very long short-hand taker, Father Watson acquired more than secretarial skills; he acquired the experience and knowledge he would later need as Bishop of the diocese.

Bishop Watson often made surprise visits to Prep classrooms. His unannounced appearances kept him in touch with the students of the school he loved so well.

In recent years, unfortunately, Prep has been deprived of his familiar presence because of illness. But his interest and moral support remained with the students, and they were rarely out of sight of the attentive face at the rectory window.

New Materials Spell Growth

What's new at Prep? Mrs. Rodak, the head librarian could point out more than a thousand "new things" nestled in our library. And that's just counting the books. To supplement the English, history, theology and science classes, the library has accumulated over 500 silent filmstrips and 150 films with the added benefit of cassette tape accompaniment.

Anyone who ventured beyond the attendance office noted the renovation of Room 101 into an audio-visual center with four television monitors and a video-tape machine. The 50 to 60 video tapes complemented the history, science and literature curriculums. The new electronic programmer increased the usefulness of the machines by allowing the school to tape more televised programs.

The library also constantly upgraded its research material. The New York Times was stored on microfilm and all the major research magazines were stored on microfiche.

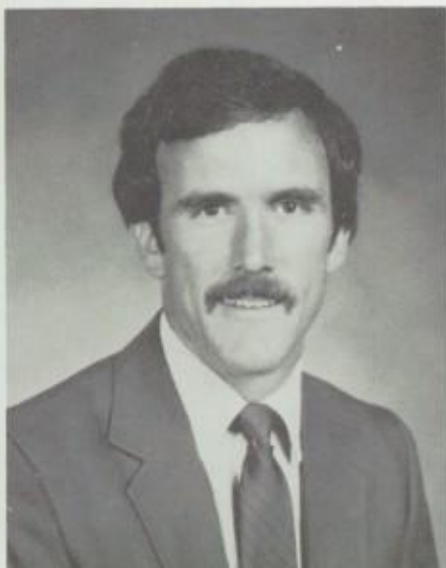

All of these materials were available to Prep students. Throughout the year, the library loaned hundreds of films and tapes to teachers and allowed the students to view the materials privately as a supplement to their studies.

As "the backbone of anything that goes on in school," the library has never been better prepared to meet the needs of the Prep student body.

Easy as A B C is the theme as Preston Bowen introduces Jim Amoriello to the microfiche file. Students made much use of the library's holdings especially during research paper time.

A.P. Program Yields Benefits

Cathedral Prep College? Not quite, but almost. Juniors and Seniors who were enterprising enough accumulated college credits from Gannon University while still in high school.

With extra effort and hard work, these students took advantage of the Advanced Placement Program. This year, Juniors who qualified received college credits in English, science, math, and history. Seniors also took advantage of these courses and enrolled in psychology, economics, sociology, and accounting as well.

The A.P. Program, set up in conjunction with Gannon University, gave the gifted students more academic challenge at minimal cost per credit. Since 1972, the first year the program was initiated, over two thousand students enrolled in it and amassed a savings of over $311,965. More than seven thousand college credits were awarded in this time, proving that Prep lived up to its claim of being a successful college preparatory school.

Mrs. Dinn listens to a Senior's insight on James Joyce in AP English. More than 35 Prep students earned college English credits this year.

Fun Begins After Seventh Period

Rather than speeding home after school, many members of the Prep faculty devoted some of their extra time to moderating extra-curricular activities.

Mr. Lesniewski, for example, worked long hours prepping his delegates for participation in the Model United Nations. This year Cathedral Prep took an active part by representing the west-central African country of Niger. Because 1981 was the Year of the Disabled Person, the delegates debated many issues affecting the rights and needs of the disabled. The would-be diplomats also negotiated about the crises in Central American and international controls on terroristic activity. As a result of the time and effort Mr. Lesniewski gave to this club, the General Meeting conducted at Gannon University on November 13th and 14th was very successful. Prep Senior Bob Maxwell's reception of a two thousand dollar Gannon University Scholarship for his outstanding contributions attested to the fact.

The intramural athletic program also boasted of its own dedicated faculty members, namely Mr. Krasinski and Mr. Wenrick. Through their tireless coaching and planning, many students participated in soccer, volleyball, basketball, and water-polo teams.

The boxing program continued to expand under the guidance of Mr. Wachter who saw to it that the boxers became disciplined and well-conditioned. Anyone who approached the indoor track after school heard the resounding sounds of team members learning to throw punches or bob-and-weave.

The Chess and War Games Club went on to greater ventures this past year with the addition of twenty-five new members which brought the total membership to thirty. Students engaged in games which required strategical skill, including the newest Prep craze, Dungeons and Dragons.

Besides his contributions to the intramural athletic program, Mr. Wenrick pioneered the first annual, very successful phone-a-thon. He and many student volunteers manned phones for over twenty hours to get financial pledges from alumni to help relieve the growing budget and to keep tuition under control.

All in all the extracurricular activities for the academic year 1981-1982 continued in its impressive tradition through the dedication and self-sacrifice of faculty members whose school day does not end with the dismissal bell at 3:20.

Smiling impressively, Mr. Lesniewski challenges the idea that Model U.N. is all work and no play.

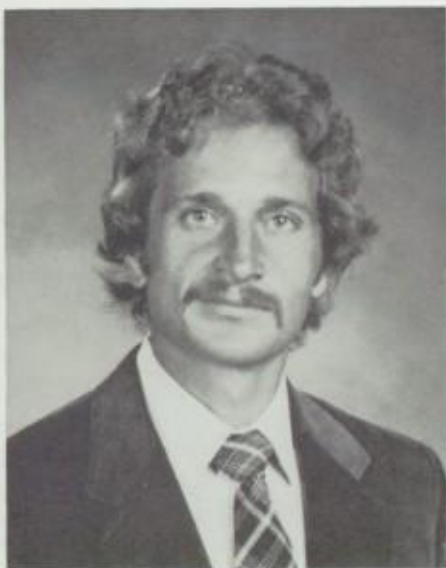

Preventive maintenance is applied to Shawn Dombrowski's ankle by Assistant Coach, Mr. Dave Wenrick before a strenuous basketball practice. Mr. Wenrick along with Mr. Larry Krasinsky also plays an important role in Prep's intramural program by organizing and refereeing the teams.

Test Tube Artists

Prep students looked with pride to their Science Departments. Two of our illustrious educators have also made a name for themselves in the entertainment and art fields.

Mr. Scott Grack, chemistry teacher to most, was the lead guitarist for the rock group "Agent." A musician since his days in high school, Mr. Grack found a great deal of enjoyment in the performing arts and brought enjoyment to all who heard him.

Senior physics teacher Mr. William Dunegan also had occasions this year to turn his long-time hobbies, carving and drawing, into a productive art form. Displaying his carvings at a local gallery, Mr. Dunegan added much to the exhibition with his intricately carved and painstakingly painted waterfowl sculptures.

Leaving flasks and Petri dishes for the moment, Mr. Grack disproves the stereotype that chemists are a breed apart. His involvement with the rock group "Agent" has made him a familiar personality at local night spots.

Students Enjoy Personalized Guidance

Guidance at Prep was not confined to a specific room or person. It took various forms in various places, and each faculty member left a personal mark on the students.

Father Barletta of the Theology Department, for example, kept an appointment book so he could schedule the times that students would stop by his residence for after-school counseling. Conscious of the day-to-day problems of the Prep students, he offered his experience and advice to any student who requested it.

But for those occasions that called for specific assistance in career choice, college selections, or academic performance, Father Nowak, the Assistant Headmaster in charge of guidance, was the problem-solver. His domain, the guidance office, was usually filled with students scanning the rows of informative literature.

One of the fringe benefits of the student-teacher ratio was on-the-spot guidance. The availability of the faculty, whether in the halls, in the gym, or in the classrooms before or after school accounted for this informal, individualized counseling.

It's tough to tear yourself away from a good college catalog as Seniors John Nunes and Rick Walczak demonstrate in the Guidance Office. The office provides a wide selection of materials to help Seniors in their decisions about undergraduate studies.

Diplomats of Tomorrow

Where can the diplomats of tomorrow be found? The future ambassadors to France? Spain? Germany? Or Italy? Why on the fourth floor of Prep, of course, struggling with the rudiments of language.

The language teachers this year tried new methods. For example, Mrs. George, the French teacher and moderator of the French Club, utilized a number of innovative techniques. To help the students with French pronunciation, she used tapes and records along with the text. Students could then imitate the pronunciation and intonation of native French speakers.

Mrs. George also gave written exercises in grammar and spelling. Often these activities were interspersed with oral practice sessions. The more advanced students engaged in discussions which dealt with French subjects and even carried on conversations in French.

To enliven the classes Mrs. George also made use of games, such as French Scrabble, Hangman and an occasional old-fashioned spelling bee. These "fun" activities helped the students improve their spelling and vocabulary skills.

In spirit the students traveled to France via filmstrips and posters where they viewed historic French landmarks. Such experiences became the next best thing to being there.

Shooting For Fun

This year the gym classes proved to be a mixture of fun and exercise under the supervision of the Nowakowski brothers, Jim and Dave; Mr. Kordich; and the ever-present Mr. Zambroski. This year's Phys. Ed. students packed the gymnastic kits of last year and concentrated on the more popular sports of water-polo and basketball. Although the water-poloing was fun, the first annual Hot Shots competition highlighted the year.

This competition pitted students against each other. The object of the game was to rack up as many points as possible with the winner being the student who attained the highest score. Each participant was given one minute to shoot the ball from five clearly defined spots on the floor. Each "hot spot" was assessed a specific point value — the further from the basket, the more points one received. Winners of this competition received trophies and all participants experienced satisfaction at being part of the action.

Without gymnastics, the year may not have been the same, but the students still got ample exercise and enjoyed the got ample exercise and got the chance of being dubbed a real "hot shot."

They Do It All For You

McDonald's can boast, "We do it all for you," but in a far more tangible way so could the women in white who comprised the Prep cafeteria staff. Besides, their cooking expertise went far beyond the hamburger.

Did you ever wonder how much work went into making those hot, nutritious lunches every day? Before most students got to school, the cafeteria staff was already at work whipping up the day's menu. Students would be amazed if they knew the countless hours that went into the planning, purchasing, and final preparation of each meal. And even after ravenous appetites were satisfied and the students returned to their classes, the often thankless task of cleaning the cafeteria still remained.

That's dedication! And to borrow from another popular commercial institution, the Prep cafeteria staff, too, "cared enough to serve the very best."

SENIORS

Seniors Pass Historic Milestone

With the hazy days of summer still lingering in the air, the students submitted — some eagerly, some reluctantly — to a pre-Labor Day beginning of the school year. For the Seniors the year marked more than the passing of that final milestone toward commencement; it identified them as the sixtieth graduation class in Prep's history. This diamond year provided the occasion for reflection and affirmation: a time to recall those early days of Prep in humbler settings and a time to affirm its ideals as a leading Catholic academic institution for boys. In the year 1982 the THEN met the NOW — a unique time in Prep's history, for the school pointed proudly to the alumni still in its midst who not only laid the foundation of Prep but sent their sons and grandsons to carry on those hallowed traditions and adapt them to the needs of a new generation.

A Night In Camelot turns the Prep gym into a land where knights and their ladies put on their finery and enjoy the music of "Night Watch".

1981 Homecoming:

The 1981 Homecoming Dance, "A Night in Camelot," was one of the most successful events this year.

With the help of Miss Maxwell, Father Hahn and the Homecoming Committee led by Dudley Kelsey, preparation for the dance went smoothly. There were 170 couples who entered the gym on the evening of September 26 and danced to the music of Night Watch.

Vying for the title of Homecoming Queen were Villa Maria's Theresa Gamble escorted by Pat McCormick and Amy Chevalier accompanied by Mike Dill; St. Benedict's Marjorie Bolash escorted by Joe Murphy and Tessa James accompanied by Viet Phung.

The day started with the Homecoming Committee preparing the gym for the dance. The game was under way at two o'clock. This was the first Saturday afternoon game to be played in the Veterans Memorial Stadium this year. Facing the Ramblers was a hard-hitting team from Cleveland East. At the half-time, the Cathedral Prep Marching Band, displaying their new uniforms and their talents, performed for the crowd. The Master of Ceremonies, Dave Holland, announced the 1981 Homecoming Queen: Theresa Gamble. When the game ended, the Ramblers routed their opponents in a 32-6 victory.

Later that evening, students and their dates converged on the Prep gym to enjoy, from eight to eleven o'clock, a carefree "Night in Camelot." The dance went very well, with some students sitting in with the band and singing. But before the night was over, many wondered if the world of Camelot were not threatened by some formidable dragon that might have kidnapped the Homecoming Queen and her entourage. The fair maiden never appeared to reign over her court all because the golden gates of Camelot were closed at quarter after nine. The excitement of the day carried over to the many get-togethers later that evening.

Defensive standouts, Doug Dalton and Tony Viglione, stop an opposing drive by a tough Cleveland East team.

On a well-executed screen play, Tom Luteran runs by opposing players and follows close behind the blocking of Len Cyterski.

Pat McCormick and Theresa Gamble; Mike Dill and Amy Chevalier; Joe Murphy and Marjorie Bolash; Viet Phung and Tessa James; and Matt Zonno, who escorted the 1980 Homecoming Queen, Sue VanDamia, anxiously await the crowning of the new Queen.

A Knight To Remember

Tim Geary and his date display some fancy moves to the beat of Night Watch.

A slow dance, like this one by Karl Ohmer and his date, gives a change of pace to the dance.

After an energetic dance, Andy Patsy and his date take a break from the dance floor to catch their breath.

Theresa Gamble receives her crown and flowers from Sue VanDamia and earns applause from the crowd attending the game.

The enthusiasm — and excitement of the evening is exhibited by Paul Denial and his date.

No Losers In Sight

As the Class of '82 concluded its final year of high school, it also concluded the final leg of the race which began in its Freshman year. The students in this class went through several time-trials filled with many hours of homework and late-night studying. As they grew they got to know the different runners in the race, and many made life-long friends. The runners had a number of coaches throughout this time whose goal never changed: to help the runners grow to manhood. During these four years the students made Prep their second home and family, but their time here was almost over; the finish line was near — graduation.

The class entered the race as Freshmen and slowly learned the track they would run on for the next four years. In their classes they were taught the value of serious study and personal responsibility. It was this class that witnessed the last presentation of the homecoming candidates on stage. As Freshmen they also shared the running track with three exchange students from Mexico. These students added a cultural dimension to the race. When the three friends left, they took back to Mexico a new understanding of life in the United States. They returned with many fond memories of the unique school they attended on the shores of Lake Erie.

As Sophomores the class advanced to the status of veteran runners. They passed their first time-trial. This year they asserted themselves by planning one of Prep's most successful mixers. They also celebrated the basketball team's State Championship which brought more than a little bit of sweetness into the year. The runners, now halfway around the track, saw the finish line rising like a shining star in the distance.

As Juniors they became upperclassmen who basked in the glory of Prep- dominated Metro year in which Prep won eleven out of twelve team awards. Receiving their class rings that same year made them varsity runners who could appreciate their struggle all the more.

As they neared the finish line, they looked back at the worn track with fond remembrance and experienced mixed feelings about leaving Prep. They evaluated their performance in the past four years and recognized the different ways they attained their goal. Some runners crossed the line first, never breaking stride; some stumbled along the way but finished strong. The last group plugged along, pausing but never stopping. And when this group crossed the line, the race of the Class of '82 ended, and no losers in sight.

Seniors Taste Campus Life Early

This past year, many members of the class of '82 visited area colleges to get a feel for university life. Rather than wait until the last minute to pick a college, this year's Seniors packed up their immaturity, took control over their lives, and made the early-decision planning work for them. All of the lectures given to them in group guidance finally paid off because most Seniors knew where they were going with their choices for colleges, weighed the good points and the bad points and made their decisions early, leaving time to enjoy their Senior year instead of worrying about being accepted to a college. The most visited campuses in this area were Penn State and Clarion.

Since these visitations usually lasted for a weekend, the Seniors viewed them as both academic and social experiences. When they arrived at the college, they usually received a talk on the philosophy and goals of the school by the director of admissions and then a general tour of the campus. That completed the formal part of the weekend with the fun still yet to come. Then they took advantage of the many social facilities offered and played some sports or just looked around on their own. They saw campus life in operation and that gave them a real sense of the college scene. For the rest of the weekend, they went to parties and tried to do whatever they would normally do if they were actually in college. These experiences gave them a sense of what their lives would be like for the next four years.

Senior Carl Weber said of his trip to Penn State: "I enjoyed the time I spent there learning about how the college system works. I wasn't sure about which college I was going to attend, but after I visited Penn State, there was no doubt in my mind that this was the place for me. I stayed there for a weekend, getting a preview of what university life is really like. I didn't spend so much time with the academics; however, I did get an in-depth look at the social life.

After visiting Clarion State, Mike Flatley had this to say: "I was really impressed with the way things went for me. The atmosphere was very friendly and the campus was really nice. This trip helped me to make up my mind as to where I'd go after graduating from Prep. I can't wait to start."

The experience received during a trip to a college campus was far more informative than any of the brochures received from a college. These visitations were main factors in the choosing of colleges by the Class of '82.

Senior Spirit Runs Rampant Through Prep

Anyone walking into a Cathedral Prep sporting event found a driving atmosphere charged with energy that bombarded fans of all ages. Creating an indescribable voltage of excitement and power, this force was very difficult to contain, let alone defeat.

Not just rowdy-spirited and supremely vocal, it was a visible sign of the students' pride in their school. This current of total participation affected the most passive students.

This kind of support was the catalyst for the high-flowing adrenalin of the Prep athletes. It contributed significantly to the many victories and catapulted the Ramblers to brilliant successes.

A rambunctious group of screaming undisciplined kids it was not. Led by the cheerleaders and some faculty members, the students responded with a wave of enthusiasm whose crest filled the auditorium and spilled over into the games.

This electrifying surge was bigger and stronger than any one person. It was unmistakably the unified power behind Prep's spirited "Sixth Man."

A Preppy Is Not Always a Preppy

When is a Preppy not a preppy? When he has spent four years at Prep but not followed many of the conventions of dress or taste that go with "preppyism". Dockside and Izods, the traditional dress of the preppy, became one of the more popular styles in the United States. Dress is not the only sign of a preppy though and it certainly was not the only difference within the Senior class.

Styles and taste in music divided many of this years graduates. Names like the "Pretenders", "Parliament", and "Rush" may not have meant a great deal to many faculty or parents, but they created a reason for hot controversy among students. The Punk- New Wave cult continued with its simple and unconventional lyrics and music. Funk played on to dance floors filled with rhythm-bent couples who could have been as much a part of the sixties as of the eighties. Rock, the most popular and most diverse of musical styles created more of its heroes and groupies as the "Rolling Stones" triumphantly returned to the American music scene.

These styles of music did more than simply entertain. They spawned styles of life. Music always provided an atmosphere for relaxation but the volume and driving beat of Punk and some of the harder rock created diversion and escape. When the real world was too much to understand or deal with, imaginary worlds grew up. As these styles of music developed, mythology, of all things, crept into the lives of many. The outer space worlds of electronic games at a place called "Diversions" gave students a chance to control destinies. "Dungeons and Dragons", affectionately known as D and D, grew in popularity to such an extent that dungeonmasters were in hot pursuit of monsters through the mail; and the monsters only sometimes resembled an alligator.

Preppies were not always preppy and, in fact, much anti-preppy feeling — not the type from the other city high schools — surfaced. Diversity marked the Senior class and while East and West did not always meet on friendly terms, it certainly provided an interesting and exciting experience.

Man's Best Friend

The weather was fantastic for Erie. The sun was shining and the air was warm. A light breeze blew down the street. It was a beautiful day for a walk, so why wasn't anyone walking?

The answer soon became clear. The smell of exhaust fumes filled the air while the sound of screeching tires and accelerating engines broke the silence. The street filled with Prep students in their shiny, air-conditioned automobiles. American had a new endangered species — the walker.

The car had become the center of high school life. Since those childish days of Freshman year, a Prepster dreamed of the day when he could drive. He counted the days until his sixteenth birthday when he could go to Second and Ash and navigate the course successfully. He counted the hours until his permit would be stamped, and he could drive alone. He waited patiently for his license so he could alter his birthdate and have his own I.D.

Without the car he would be helpless. How would he get to school each morning? (The only alternative was to get up early and ride ten to thirty minutes on a bumpy route in a bus overcrowded with a bunch of underclassmen who hadn't discovered the wonders of deodorant.) How could he get to the games, the concerts, or the dances which pop up on the calendar? How could he take his "sweet young chickadee" out for "a peck or two" on the weekend? In the life of a high school student, the car was not a luxury; it was a necessity.

Life Beneath the Golden Arches

"Mac's Golden Arches" was the weekend gathering place for area high-schoolers. After games, mixers, or on boring Saturday nights, large crowds habitually gathered there to socialize and enjoy an inexpensive snack.

The management at McDonald's tolerated the large and often rambunctious crowds. However, outbreaks of violence in the form of senseless brawls and property damage prompted the management to devise a stricter behavior code.

For most Seniors Mac's proved to be a great place for meeting new crowds, eyeing a particular heart-throb, or breaking the five-day routine. Some Seniors offered their views of McDonald's as a local "hotspot":

Matt VonKaenel — "It is a radical time and always has been. But especially this year with buck-buck and senior spirit. It's great talking to people and watching the place explode."

Joe Leopold — "I never really went up there until this year. I've always gone out with a crowd that didn't get into going up there."

Joe Rowane — "I go because everyone else does and always has. It seems like a weekend headquarters, to go there and find out what's going on that night."

Don May — "It's still a great place to go after games, but not really good anymore as a general hangout for Seniors. It's more for the underclassmen now, like it once was for us. Besides, Seniors have more important places to go . . . like parties."

Greg Campbell — "Used to be super, but now it is dominated by underclassmen, kind of like an underclass mixer. Plus, now a lot of opposing schools gather there and a few rednecks cause a lot of friction and trouble. It's to a point where people won't go up there anymore because they are afraid of getting beat up."

Carl DiNicola and Scott Lyons — "In years previous to this, McDonald's had been recognized as the foremost abode for mingling peers throughout the Erie area. However, in recent weeks, the augmented inter-school rivalry has resulted in numerous brawls in the parking facilities. Therefore, one can only speculate that until freedom from danger can be assured, this consummate institution will remain a battleground for a select few inane individuals."

"We, the troubled members of Cathedral Prep, now await with utmost anticipation the triumphant return of those idyllic days of the McDonald's that we knew."

Varsity Sports and the Intramural Program were not the only athletic events that kept the Seniors busy. Out-of-school basketball, baseball, hockey, and soccer kept most of them involved and in good shape.

Parish League Basketball attracted numerous Seniors. Under the direction of Mr. Flaherty, the league continued to grow. Each team boasted at least one Senior from Prep. The league consisted of two divisions: the West Side and the East Side. The first part of the season found the West Teams playing each other and the East Teams doing the same. The two divisions competed against each other in the second half of the season. The teams with the best records advanced into the playoffs where the winner received an invitation to the state championships.

During the same season, hockey also came into the picture. The Erie Youth Hockey League attracted many Seniors who played hockey for Prep. Two teams made up the league: the House Team which played all of its games at home and the Travel Team which played all of its games on the road. The Travel Team played in Pittsburgh and

Keep in Shape

Buffalo while the House Team hosted teams at the Erie Field House and the Glenwood Ice Rink.

The thawing snows and the rising temperatures saw the Seniors turning out on the baseball and soccer fields. The American Legion Baseball League provided most of the excitement during the summer. With the sizzling fast balls, the cracking of bats, and the great diving catches of the newly-adopted Erie Cardinals, baseball was back at Ainsworth Field and the American Legion League was there, too, to share in the action.

Away from the baseball diamond, Seniors challenged opponents on the soccer field. They participated in the eighteen-and-under age group which made up only part of the Erie Youth Soccer Association. The age group was divided into five co-ed teams which played at either Behrend, J.S. Wilson, or McDowell.

With these four out-of-school sports, plus the Varsity Sports and the Intramurals Program, at least ninety per cent of the Seniors participated in some type of athletic event.

ATHLETICS

Athletes Maintain Momentum

Cathedral Prep's reputation in academic excellence was equalled only by its outstanding athletic achievements. Since its beginning Prep has been known as "the team to beat" in almost every sport. This tribute rang true once again in 1981-82 as the Athletic Department fielded contenders in every major sport.

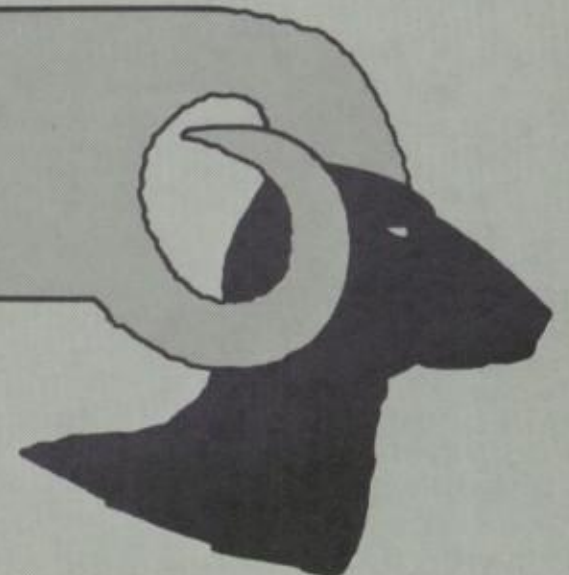

Autumn brought with it Metro titles in football, soccer and golf. But it also saw the fall of Prep's cross country dynasty as the team won the City but fell behind Strong Vincent in the Metro meet. The football title was disputed because of the teachers' strike eliminating some games.

Then came Old Man Winter who witnessed the Hockey Team's championship and also the Swimming Team's first District X crown. Although Prep had no single state champion in wrestling, the team was ranked first in the State and beat some very formidable opponents. The season ended with the basketball team relinquishing its two year hold on the Metro crown to the talented Trojans of McDowell.

With the coming of spring, hopes and expectations soared as many considered Prep the top gun in track, water polo, baseball and tennis. Each team looked promising enough to dominate the City and make itself known throughout the State.

The 1981-82 athletic season turned out to be like most other seasons in that Prep either won its respective titles or took a close second.

Leaping Doug Carter works to control the opening tip at State College. On this year's swing through Central Pennsylvania the Ramblers defeated the State College quintet but fell to strong Williamsport.

Four Years And Still Undefeated

The Prep golfers did it again! They won their fourth consecutive metro championship while amassing forty-four consecutive victories. Leading the Rambler linksters this year was Senior-Captain George Ciotti who had the third lowest strokes per round average in Prep history. Ciotti, under the guidance of Coach Jerry Pohl, molded a young golf squad into metro champions. Aiding Ciotti were Junior John Bean; Sophomores Greg Ashton, Paul Brzozowski, Tim Harrington; and Freshman standout, Chris Keim.

After capturing the metro crown, the Prep team proceeded to enter the District 10 Tournament where Ciotti and Bean finished fifth and sixth respectively, advancing both of them to the State Tournament. At the State Tournament, the Ramblers did not fare well. John Bean led the way with a twenty-sixth place finish.

The season ended, however, on a more confident note with George Ciotti, Chris Keim, Tim Harrington, Greg Ashton, and John Bean receiving first-team metro honors.

Senior Jerry Uht carefully pitches his second shot onto one of the temperamental greens at J.C. Martin. Jerry did well in a support role for the team.

Harriers Accept The Challenge

In spite of losing their first dual meet in seven years and failing to capture the District X Championship, the Cross Country Team overcame discouraging odds to once again post an impressive season.

In view of the fact that the team boasted only one Senior Letterman, Matt VonKaenel, the team's record was no small accomplishment.

The squad, directed by Head Coach Ron Sertz and Assistant Coach Scott Grack, finished with a 8-1 dual meet record. The plethora of inexperienced runners did not prevent the team from finishing second in the Metro League and tying with Strong Vincent for the city championship. Earlier in the year the harriers finished first in the Rochester McQuaid Invitational. This success allowed the team to participate in many other invitationals, such as the McDowell, the Akron Firestone, and the Central Catholic where they finished second, fifth, and fourteenth, respectively.

Ramblers Gain Downstate Exposure

For the third straight season the Prep Soccer Team captured the Metro and District X titles. This year proved to be one of the best seasons as the Ramblers confronted more powerful and experienced teams. At the beginning of the season Prep engaged in a two-day tournament in State College playing against powerhouse teams from all over Pennsylvania. The team also spent many Saturdays traveling to Pittsburgh to compete against highly ranked schools from that area. Their impressive performance at these games insured the Ramblers of further invitations to compete against such high-caliber players in the years to come. This much needed exposure helped to promote Prep Soccer downstate as well as in Erie.

Prep's awesome frontline — spearheaded by high scoring Junior Bill Kelly in the center with co-captain Jamie DiNicola, Tim Zack, and Mark Connolly on the wings — forced people to stand up and take notice of this talented Prep Team.

Halfback Tony Sala shows excellent ball control in the mid-field position.

Senior co-captain Tony Sala, along with Paul Clemente and Joe Kloecker, held the vital midfield position intact. At the same time, the defense also proved to be one of the toughest units in the area to penetrate. Senior Matt Tullio in the sweeper position and Rich Tullio as the stopper held this outstanding defense together. Senior Mike Albertson showed strong goalkeeping and received strong backup from Ned McAllister.

A strong bench provided a consistent, reliable reserve for the Ramblers. Freshmen Tom Masharka and Bill Gude saw much game time as did fullbacks Dan Shade, Joe Stanganelli, and Phil Trapolsi.

The driving force behind the success of Prep Soccer was the expert coaching of Mr. Richard DeFay and Mr. Ron Rosinski. These two men devoted their talents and experience to form another winning season for the Varsity Soccer Team.

Freshman standout Bill Gude, under pressure from Fredonia defenseman, makes an excellent pass.

Little Booters Demonstrate

The Junior Varsity Soccer Team, featuring a balanced attack and a dependable defense, finished the season tied with McDowell for the Metro honors. Tony Finazzo led the offense along with captain Art Sider, Derrick Welch, Tom Maggio, and John Sala. Defensive standouts were Jeff Shaffer and goalkeeper Joe Donahue who proved to be the most consistent player on the team and kept the Ramblers close in many games with clutch saves at crucial moments.

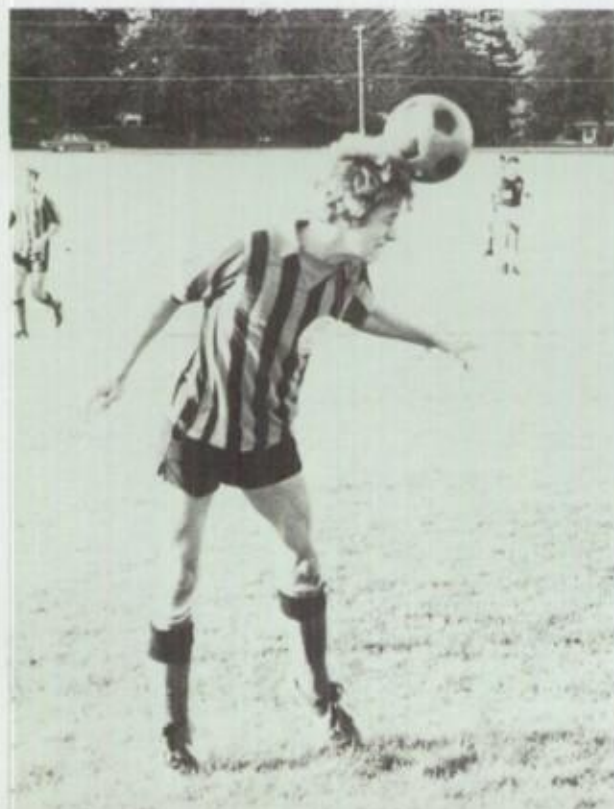

The "Jayvees" proved a team to be reckoned with by coming back from many half-time deficits to put the game in their favor and emerge victors.

Winning Ways

Unable to find competition in its own age group in Erie, the Freshman Soccer Team competed in the same league as the Junior Varsity. Playing against older and bigger teams did not hamper this talented Freshman Team as it finished the season in second place. In order to find competition at their age level these apprentice Ramblers had to play many out-of-town games. These games proved to be quite beneficial as they provided the fledgling athletes with the experience and stamina they needed to prove their strength in the Metro games.

Mr. Frank Ortiz and Mr. John Allen provided the expert coaching that guided the mini-Ramblers through this impressive season. Outstanding players on the team were Captains Dave Pysh and Mark Raimy, Eric Walker, Tim Zieziula, Dave Parr, Dave DiNicola, and Chris Pelinsky.

Ramblers Prove Dynasty Is Back

The Prep Ramblers captured their second metro crown since Coach Mina George led his troops towards the rebuilding of the Prep football dynasty. This year Coach George took his players great distances in order to come up with quality competition and with hopes of increasing the football program. George — along with assistant coaches Pat Czytuck, Tom DelFratte, Tom Hansen, and Jack Henning — first journeyed with the team to Conneaut, where the year before they dropped their opener. But this year it was different, as the Ramblers won a hard-fought battle against Conneaut, 12-6, at the stadium.

The opener was highlighted by the two interceptions of Junior Shawn Dombrowski and Senior Tom Luteran's two touchdown runs. Returning to action the next week, the Ramblers lost their first game of the season to Clairton by a score of 0-18, evening the season slate to 1-1.

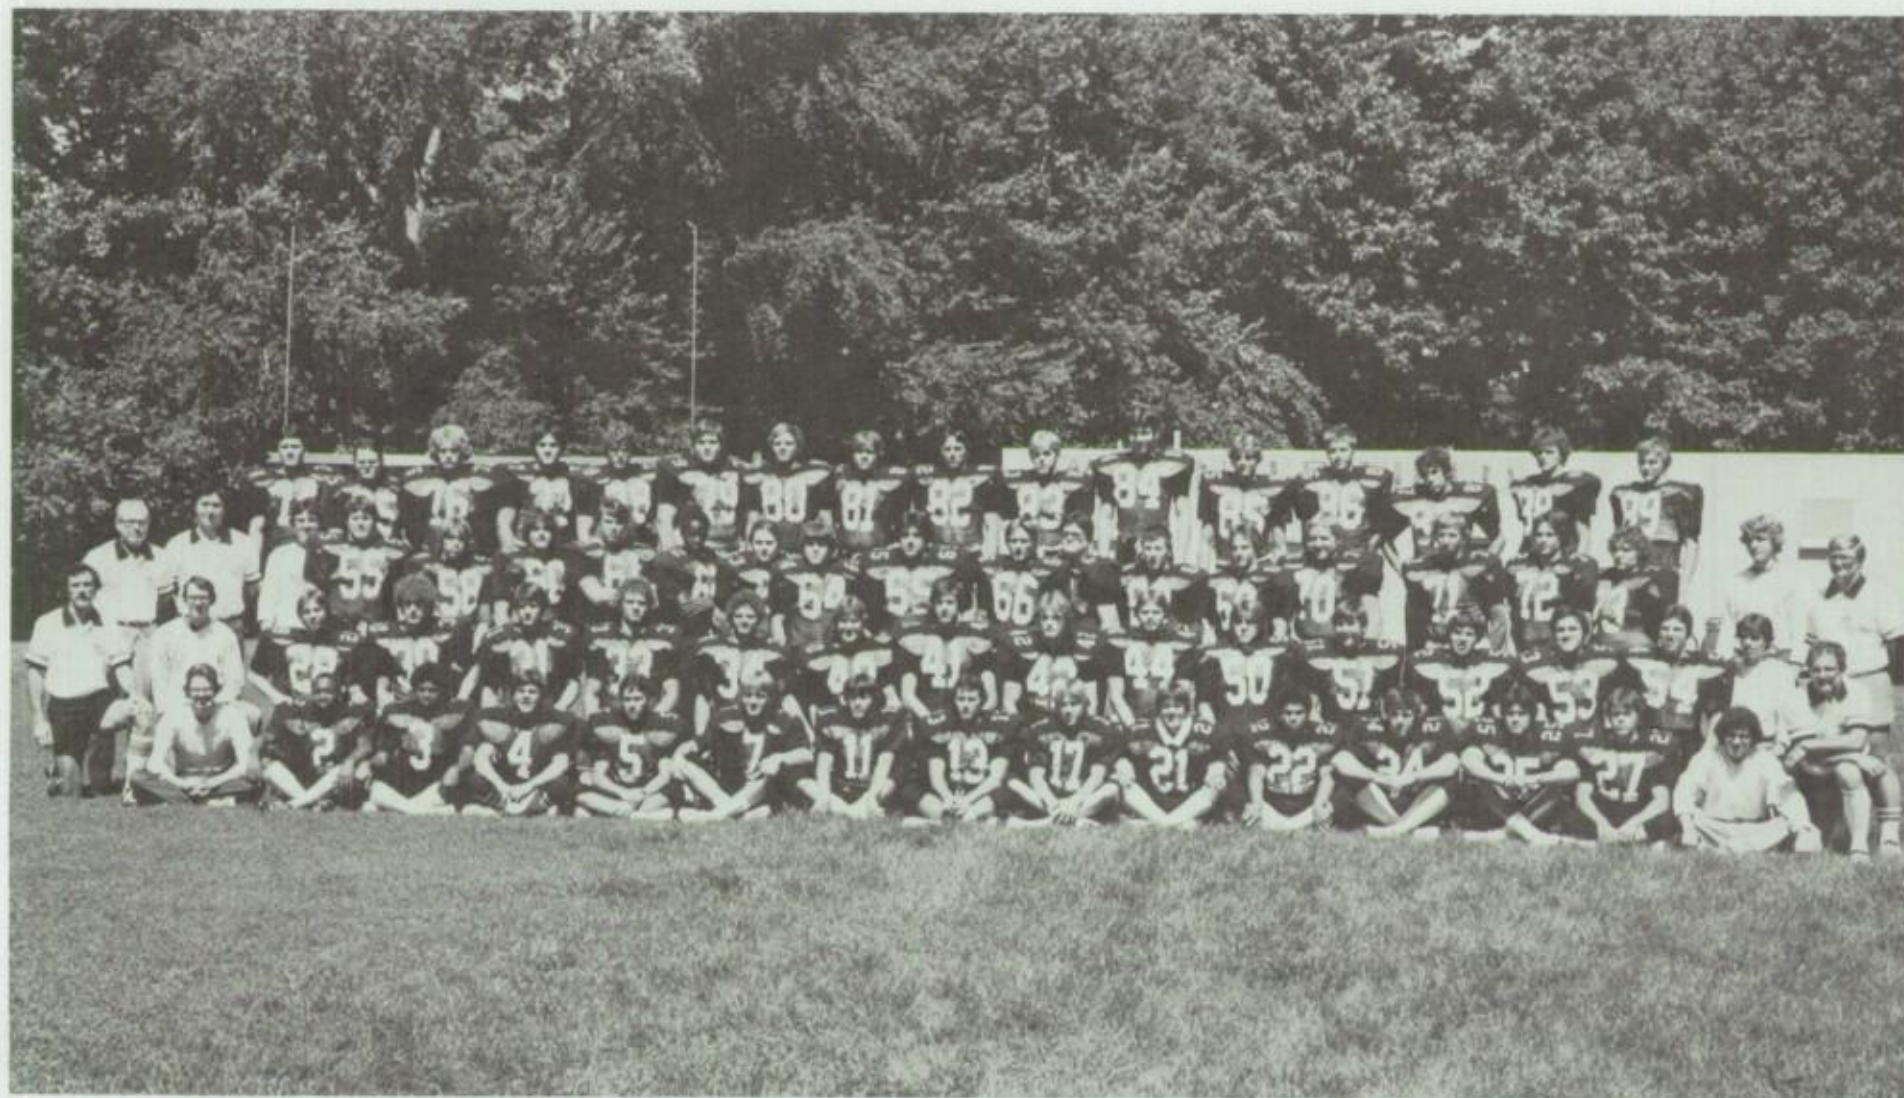

The following week the Ramblers descended upon Veterans Memorial Stadium to take on the always tough Academy Lions. This year was no different: going into halftime the Lions had a five-point lead. Then the rains came and the game was suspended for three days. After that brief layoff a newly revived football team came out in the second-half and proceeded to beat Academy by a score of 16-12. The outstanding defensive play by Sean Horton with ten tackles aided, no doubt, in the victory.

In the next two home-games the Ramblers continued their winning streak by routing both Cleveland East 30-6 and Strong Vincent 34-6, thus bringing their metro record to 2-0. By this time in the season the momentum escalated to the perfect climax for Prep to confront its archrival, McDowell. In this confrontation the Ramblers finished with an 8-7 victory on Tom Allen's 61-yard touchdown run and Shawn Dombrowski's two-point conversion.

In the next metro tilt all the Ramblers had to do was defeat East High in order to guarantee the metro championship. But all Prep could do was battle the Warriors in a hard fought 7-7 tie. Next the team traveled to Ohio to take on Cleveland St. Edwards. Even in a 27-41 defeat the Ramblers still gained a season-high 431 yards.

With a full season of competition almost completed, it finally happened: the Erie public school teachers went on strike. This action ended the season and gave the Ramblers a 2-0 forfeit victory over Tech — a rather hollow finish for a season that could have ended with a bona fide metro championship.

Coach George anxiously paces down the sideline. He was an integral part in opening up the Prep offensive.

Junior Shawn Dombrowski runs around one Academy tackler while outracing the rest of the Academy defense. This year's Rambler squad was well equipped with a potent offense and they made full use of it.

Overpowering Defense Directs

An Academy runner slides through one Rambler tackler but the second proves to be too much as he takes command of the Lion back.

Defensive end Tony Viglione closes in for the kill against the Cleveland East quarterback. Senior Joe Zock follows behind. The traditionally tough defense, aided by the revised offense, worked together this year to give Prep its second consecutive Metro title.

Head coach Mina George gladly gets out of the way as he shows his approval of Tony Viglione and Joe Rodriguez making the tackle. Through his hard work and dedication on and off the field, Viglione won the second annual Chris Timmons Award.

Both the Freshman and Junior Varsity divisions of Prep football barely missed reaching their goals of undefeated seasons this past year. The J.V. team, under the direction of second year Head Coach, Mr. Dave Stoczynski, started off its defense of the Metro crown in fine fashion as it blanked its first four opponents while racking up seventy points.

Then a stubborn Strong Vincent team came along and edged the Ramblers by a single touchdown and conversion. This was the team's first loss in three years. Fired up rather than discouraged by the loss, the team looked toward the last encounter of the season when it was to face Vincent again in the game that would probably decide the Metro championship.

This dream was spoiled when the Erie Public School Teachers' strike forced the Colonels to forfeit its last game. The forfeit gave Prep another Metro title, but it was a major disappointment to a team that was looking to avenge its lone setback in a successful 9-1 season. Coach Stoczynski named Don Hall, Craig DeMarco, Monty Heidelberg, Keith Nowakowski, Buddy Palotas and Al Zenner as standouts of the season.

The Freshman team, on the other hand, proved luckier since it was able to challenge its nemesis twice. With an increased seven game schedule, Head Coach Ed Dalton guided his team to a 6-1 ledger. The lone setback came at the hands of McDowell by a slim 6-0 margin. The Freshmen did, however, play the Trojans twice, and in their inaugural meeting the little Ramblers prevailed by a score of 20-0. This year's squad was headed by quarterback Marcus Amos and fullback Brent Taylor.

With this type of experience and success among its novice teams, the coaches and managers of Prep's Varsity football program looked with pride and confidence at a very promising group of talented players.

Poloists Keep Championship Status

During the past two years, the water-polo team established itself statewide, and this past season should be no exception. With a state championship last year, second year coach Rob Erickson produced a powerful returning team which also included three Seniors and four Junior starters. Only one game was completed when the teachers in the Erie Public School District went on strike, and the Ramblers made their presence known. The team set a new City record for the most goals scored in one game as it destroyed Academy 33-5 averaging one goal every 45 seconds.

The Ramblers own the last two City championships with two undefeated seasons to back it up. Tech Memorial should provide the stiffest competition, but the Ramblers should swim and shoot right over them. The team is made up of Junior forwards Ed Ignaczak, John Kaliszak, and Kevin Louis who crank in goals one after another. The guard positions are occupied by Seniors Captain Dave Louis and Matt Lorei and Junior Steve Holland. This trio should keep the other team's offenses to a minimum as they protect goalies Jim Bindseil and Jim Semple.

Struggle Builds Real Character

The point man brings the ball down court and passes over to the wing who moves the ball immediately to the high post. The ball comes back to the man at low post who turns and sends a jumper through the net at the buzzer. The crowd screams its approval, and the victors raise their hands in jubilation. Backs get pounded and congratulations echo over the din of the departing fans. That's really basketball, but only a very small part of it. All of that excitement grows out of the sweat and aches and work of grueling practices that begin weeks before the first National Anthem soars over the crowd, workouts that continue through the season.

We had our moments of glory this season, but we had our weeks of stress and over-zealous expectations and struggle as well. This season was not all that everyone expected, but it was a good season. If struggles bring growth, the 1981-82 Ramblers stood head and shoulders above all their opposition.

The year began in the middle of the City Public School strike and, because of this, Coach Flaherty had to scramble to schedule independent games in the spaces that were created. Many of those contests were road encounters with strong opponents such as Farrell, Altoona, Penn Hills, and Beaver Falls. Only the bravest play these squads in their own back yard. Frustration over early losses which physically hurt the Orange and Black brought an ominous mood over the team. John Alberstadt played with injured knees; the flu bug hit hard; and exhaustion — in John Schwab's case, mononucleosis — made a consistent line-up impossible.

The crowds did not help either. Whether it was the high expectations of the Erie fans or the derogatory comments from the "other side," the pressure was on and the pressure did not let up. Coach Flaherty said that of all the groups he has coached, for some reason the crowd reaction got to this team the most. Somehow the players just forgot what it was they knew how to do well. The two heartbreaking losses to McDowell coming just a few weeks apart and the near disaster at the hands of an on-rushing Strong Vincent team proved all of that.

The team struggled on though and "never really quit working through all of the difficulties it faced," as Coach Flaherty observed. Each member of the team had a good, positive attitude about every other member and helped each other work through the problems and the frustrations. There was, above everything else, a good team spirit. The struggle paid off and brought growth and a great team effort especially in the waning days of the season. The breakthrough came at the beginning of February when the team dominated Academy at the Hammermill Center and then went on the next Tuesday, February 16, to completely stymie a brutal Youngstown Rayen squad at the Mercyhurst Campus Center. The players had fought and finally the fruits of their labor came to light. They were able to play "their game," to control the tempo and the offense.

The succeeding weeks saw the win column grow and the District X playoffs made McComb Fieldhouse the home of the Ramblers.

Rugged Mark Zappia fights for a tip at Beaver Falls. Zap entered many contests this season when height and muscle were necessary to get the job done.

The Bitter And The Sweet Of Playoffs

The tough 1981-82 campaign led into some equally tough playoff games. Prep had lost twice in the regular season to cross-town rivals McDowell and, because of this, gave up the Metro crown. The chance to play the Trojans again in the Intersection District X playoffs gave renewed hope and a hyped atmosphere to post-season play. The anticipated third game was not to be, however, as the Ramblers lost for the second time in as many seasons to the Section 2 champions, Warren. The bitterness of such a disappointment did not keep the round-ballers from outplaying Meadville two days later to secure a spot in Interdistrict play.

On Wednesday, March 17 Prep, as the third place District X team met powerful New Castle, the first place team out of the highly rated WPIAL. Falling behind by eight in the early going, the Ramblers showed their "Never say die" attitude and pulled within four at intermission. The scoring margin was never any wider as the two teams played basket for basket. Prep tied the score twice in the second half but could not wear down the tenacious Hurricanes. The high level of play and the electricity of the evening kept every fan in his place until the final buzzer. The season was over for the Orange and Black but they went home that night with their heads held high.

Inside ace John Alberstadt gets his one hander over the heads of the entire Trojan team. John performed admirably in his Senior year and was invited to try out for the Dapper Dan Classic in Pittsburgh at the end of the season.

Head Coach Mr. Bill Flaherty can't believe the call of the officials during the DeMatha Catholic game at the Gannon Hammermill Center. Coach Flaherty celebrated his two hundredth win this season.

Even though Mark Zappia is surrounded by Beaver Falls defenders, he muscled the ball into the basket to keep us close. The Ramblers lost a close game to the always powerful Tigers in their back yard.

A blur of speed, Senior point man John Schwab takes the ball to the basket for two against Meadville. John used his ball-handling talent to keep the Offense rolling and had many assists to his credit for the season.

Hands outstretched, Senior jumper Doug Carter works to control the tip. Doug, whose jumping ability is known in basketball and track circles alike added a great deal of rebounding to the team's efforts.

All Get To Play

Overall strength and great team depth characterized the underclass basketball this year. Both the Junior Varsity and Junior High teams made many quick first half pull-aways against their opponents and gave all the team members a great many opportunities to get out onto the floor and experience the thrill and the challenge of competition.

Naturally, the thrust of any basketball program is not only to win games but to teach players the skills and discipline necessary to form a solid, unified team. This is especially necessary at the lower levels of play. This season each player on both squads got the chance to test himself and his limits in the best kind of learning forum — the struggle of competition itself. Certainly there were standouts on both teams and names such as Jim Stevenson, Mark Atkinson, Sonny Watson, Mike Stadtmiller, Joe Fessler, Marcus Amos, Jerry Cooley, James Brown, Bill Snider, Bill Nemenz, and Brent Taylor made the papers and the scoreboards often. More important were all of the other young men who got a chance to handle the ball and trade baskets with opponents from much of Western Pennsylvania, opponents whom they will see much of in the next few years.

Perfection Leads Swimmers To Victory

"Quality not quantity" was the philosophy behind this year's swimming program. Under the direction of Head Coach Rob Erickson, the Ramblers maintained their championship status by relying on interval training. Compared to last year's workouts, this past season the team was pushed to its maximum as Coach Erickson's workouts had the swimmers repeat times almost as fast as they do in meets. Even on the day of a meet the Ramblers swam full workouts.

Coach Erickson, assisted by former Prep swimmer Kurt Holland, scheduled independent meets with teams of the same caliber. The Ramblers invaded Bradford, Titusville, Jamestown, and arch rival McDowell with all meets being victories. A one-point victory over Jamestown and an astounding 31-point margin over Meadville were the most impressive victories this year.

The Metro season was put to a mere one-meet season against each school this year as the city schools did not provide any competition against Prep. McDowell provided the best competition but could only manage 69 points against Prep's 106. The Ramblers ended the season with a 35 meet winning streak.

Several records were shattered as the Ramblers swam past all opponents. John Kaliszak set a school and pool record in the 100 yard breaststroke in a time of 1:03.7. John also tied the record in the 60 yard free style in 27.5. The 400 yard free style relay of Juniors Steve Holland, Ed Ignaczak, Kevin Louis and Senior Captain Dave Louis established a school record in 3:25.6. Junior Kevin Louis broke his own pool record held at Tech in the 500 yard free style in a time of 5:10.

Senior Captain Dave Louis flies in the butterfly on the first leg of the 200 yard I.M. Dave also swam the 500 yard free style and anchored a record setting relay team.

Junior sensation John Kaliszak comes up for a breath in the breaststroke. Among his many pool records John holds five distinguished records at Prep.

Junior Rob Nash speeds through the water to win. Rob's hard work helped Prep become Champions.

Wrestlers Pin Great Season

"Awesome," "Amazing," "Unbelievable," — these are just three words that could describe this year's Wrestling Team, and even those three would not be enough. The grapplers started out the season with high hopes and a tough road-schedule and they never lost, only gained momentum throughout the season. Because of the Erie City School strike, the wrestlers had to reschedule and confront many new teams. This adjustment meant a great deal of travelling and made it one of the toughest schedules in Prep Wrestling history. But despite this unique situation the Prep matmen finished for the second time with an undefeated record.

The grapplers opened up the season with a 32-16 rout of highly ranked Shaler and then travelled that weekend to the Clearfield Tournament where the team placed second overall. The matmen then wrestled a tough Reynolds team where they again were victorious by a 32-16 margin. Prep went to General McLane and won in a 52-6 romp. The next stop was Meadville for the Tool City Tournament where Prep overwhelmed the opposition and took first place overall. At Warren the team extended its streak by defeating the Dragons 56-4. Next stop was Manheim, Pennsylvania, just outside of Philadelphia, where the wrestlers entered the prestigious Manheim Central Tournament. This tournament took the best teams from Pennsylvania and many surrounding states, and again Prep emerged successfully by winning a first in overall team competition. Prep was now touted as the team to beat in Pennsylvania. This reputation stayed with them to the close of the 1981-1982 campaign.

On January fifth the grapplers went to Titusville and crushed their opponents by a score of 57-12. On the ninth, Prep faced its first City opponent when it crushed Academy 57-9. It was then on to Strong Vincent and another win of 66-5. On January 16 the team won the Metro Tournament at McDowell by placing 10 out of 13 wrestlers in the finals. Prep had back-to-back matches with Commodore Perry and East and won them both 28-15 and 57-0 respectively. Tech was next and the matmen emerged victorious again with a 48-12 trouncing of the Centaurs.

In February Prep faced McDowell first and won by a score of 39-8. Olean came into town on the sixth of the month with an undefeated record and left on the same day with a scarred record by their first loss of 45-9. The grapplers faced an undefeated Meadville team and wrestled to a score of 24-22. On the twentieth, the matmen journeyed to Cleveland where they were entered in the well-known St. Edwards Tournament and Prep placed second out of a field of six teams.

The wrestlers, under the guidance of Dave and Jim Nowakowski, did what they did this season through hard work and perseverance. The team was led by Seniors Todd Nighman, George Ciotti, Scott Hall, Tom Luteran, Joe Zock, Mike Anthony, and Andy Patsy. These members and the standout underclassmen Tom Allen, Jim Akerly, Buddy Palotas, Dave Kruszewski, Greg Pedano, and Greg Ciotti combined with the other members to form an unbeatable team.

Coaches Dave and Jim Nowakowski give moral support to a Prep wrestler. The Nowakowski's have master-minded a 27-1 record in their two years at Prep.

The wrestlers, after finishing a perfect season, started the long and tiring trek towards the State championships in Hershey, Pennsylvania.

On Saturday, February 27, the team started off by placing first in the Sectional meet and advancing ten wrestlers to the District X Tournament. The team again placed first and advanced all ten wrestlers to the Regional meet held in Altoona. But it was here that the bubble burst: out of the ten Prep contestants, only four continued their journey to the State finals. They were Seniors Todd Nighman, George Ciotti and Scott Hall; also Sophomore Tom Allen made the trip. After a brilliant display of wrestling finesse, Ciotti and Nighman were crowned Regional champions.

But the brilliance of that achievement was soon dimmed down in Hershey where Ciotti and Hall fell in their first match, while Allen went one more match than that. Nighman lost in the semi-finals at 126 pounds, being dethroned in the weight class where he won the championship the year before. The loss was a bitter disappointment to the team. It seemed that all the travelling and the demanding schedule finally caught up with them as they learned how the "thrill of victory" can be displaced by the "agony of defeat."

bout. George was a standout wrestler during all of his four years as a varsity wrestler.

At 145 pounds Mike Anthony displays awesome determination as he gains control of his opponent.

Icers Score Their Goals

For the second consecutive year the Cathedral Prep Hockey Team captured the Lake Shore Hockey League Championship with a record of 13-2-1. The team also competed under the most challenging schedule of its seven-year history.

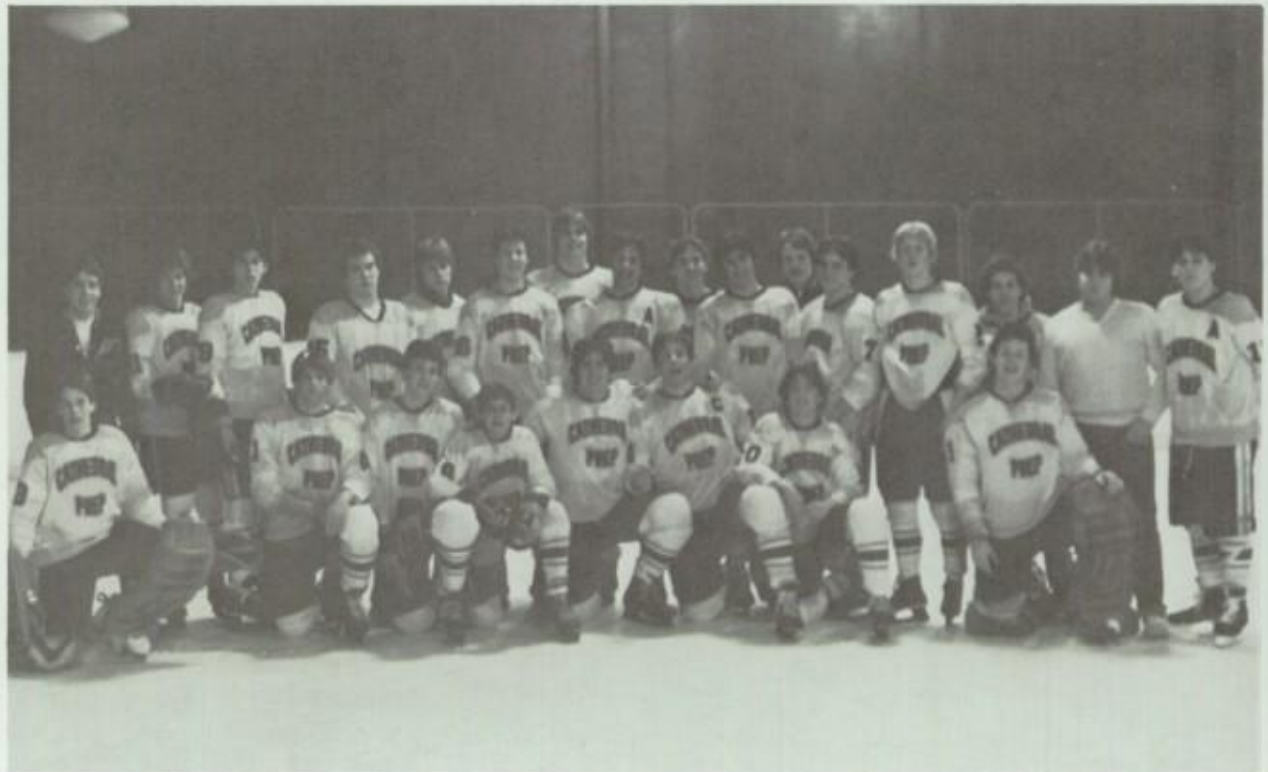

A talented offense led by Seniors Tony Sala, Tim Geary, and Brian Mullen, and Juniors Rich Tullio and Dan Dillon gave Prep a high-scoring attack which produced a number of lopsided victories. The strength of the team lay in a hard-hitting defense led by Seniors Matt Tullio and Bob Corritore and four-year starting goaltender Dan Mancuso.

The Ramblers faced a number of teams from around the Tri-State area. Prep put in a fine showing in the Pittsburgh region, defeating Baldwin and tying State powerhouse Upper St. Clair. The hockey team also impressed many people with its talented display in the Trinity Invitational Tournament.

Locally, Prep's main competition came from McDowell's Trojans. The Ramblers won the first game 3-2 but lost the second meeting 5-2. Prep came back, however, to win the third and fourth games to capture the title and a trip to the play-offs.

The Ramblers' first opponent in the State play-offs was Mt. Lebanon. Prep skated to a 6-1 victory with the outcome never in doubt. But Prep fell in second-round play to a strong Churchill team. It was a disappointing end to a exciting season for the Hockey Team.

What do you call a man who is on the ice but still thinks he's on the football field? Mr. Bob Corritore. Bob rolls over a McDowell Trojan in a rough defensive game. Prep won by the score of 3-2.

Four year veteran Dan Mancuso deflects an opponent's shot on goal. Dan was a major factor in this year's strong defense.

Junior Dan Dillon sets up a scoring drive by passing the puck to Sophomore Greg Seelinger. Senior Brian Mullen readies himself for a possible tip in.

Senior Tim Geary shows two opponents a thing or two about stick handling. This was one of the few times Tim was on the ice instead of in the penalty box.

Netmen Spike Opponents

Facing the toughest schedule in Prep's history, the tennis team hopes to attain its most successful season. Entering the 1982 season with a 70-1 record over the past four years, the squad will play twenty-six matches scattered from Erie to Pittsburgh to Nashville, Tennessee, plus the District X tournament and the State championships. The five matches played in Tennessee will be most challenging for Prep. The team faces five of the top ten teams in Tennessee. Also the matches played in Pittsburgh against Fox Chapel and Mt. Lebanon, the two top teams in the Pittsburgh area, will give the team a taste of what the State Championships will be like.

Under the leadership of Coach Jerome Pohl, the tennis team seeks to control the Metro again this year although McDowell and Mercyhurst will offer stiff competition. Depth is the key to this year's team with three Juniors and one Freshman currently competing for the number one spot. The team also boasts the doubles squad of Juniors Dan Teed and Pat Healy who rank number one in Western Pennsylvania.

With a wealth of underclass talent to insure success in the forthcoming seasons, the tennis team is confident that once again it will dominate the courts in the area.

Junior Bill Kelly executes a backhand volley at the net. Bill's consistent play has helped him maintain the number one position on the team.

Prep Track: A

Following a fantastic season last year, the Prep Track Team had strong hopes for the 1982 season. The team was under the able guidance of Head Coach Scott Grack, and although it had lost many key members, those spots were filled with some new and emerging talent.

Last season the team won the Metro Meet and placed second in the District Tournament — two firsts for a Prep Track Team. This feat was accomplished through the strengths of many participants, including standouts James Sherrod and Lance Trott who more than pulled their own weight.

The Track Team always relied on the strength of its weightmen, and this year was no exception with four returning lettermen including Tom Luteran, Bob Corritore, Ron Galla, and John DiMattio. The weightmen were supervised by Mr. Dave Nowakowski, who helped them to excel in their individual events.

Lack of depth used to be a problem in the sprinting department, but that problem was slowly erased. With the increased student body, and many bright young football hopefuls, the team picked up the speed and ability to become a major contender in area and State Track and Field competitions. Some feature sprinters were Seniors Jim Lynch and Ken McElynn, and Sophomores Tom Allen and Chris Weibel.

As always jumpers excelled in all departments. They were led by Senior sensation Doug Carter who held both the City and District record in the high jump. Carter, along with Junior Tim Augustyniak, put a lock on area high-jumping events. In pole-vaulting, Seniors Paul Denial and John Rahner commanded the skies in their event. And in the long jump, Junior Dana Stewart was the one to beat.

In the distance events, coached by Mr. Ron Sertz, the runners were led by Senior Matt VonKaenel, Junior Rich Sardini, and Sophomore Tony Scarpelli. These runners made the needed points which helped round out another fantastic year.

the team by adding the needed speed to make Prep a powerhouse in Pennsylvania Track.

Paul by catching his pole. Denial is vaulting 10' 6" in this shot.

Prep Stickmen Hit It Out Of The Ballpark

The 1982 season will be a rebuilding year for the baseball team. After losing six starters from last year's line-up, Head Coach Mr. Stan Brzezicki is faced with the problem of finding new players to fill those vacated positions. The solution lies in a strong squad of returning lettermen and some promising underclassmen from last year's 12-3 JV team.

The Ramblers' goal this year will be to defend the District X title once again. Last year Prep became the first Triple A team to successfully defend the title which it did with a sparkling 17-8 record. Head Coach Mr. Brzezicki, Assistant Coach Mr. Tom Hansen (making his coaching debut this year) and JV Coach Mr. John Wilwohl are confident that the Ramblers will make an impressive showing in the state play-offs.

Led by the pitching trio — Greg Becker, John Krahe and Chris Filipkowski — and by returning Seniors Boyd Baker, Doug Dalton, Dave Fabrizio, Mike Flatley Bill Hathaway, Mike Rydzewski, Rick Suminski, and Tony Viglione, the Ramblers will continue their dominance of district play. The team feels that a strong team spirit and willingness to work for success will result in Prep's being one of the best high school baseball teams in the state.

Intramurals Bring Relief

Traditionally the intramural program at Cathedral Prep promoted the kind of sportsmanship and competition which non-varsity students enjoyed, and this year's program proved to be no different as it brought fun and excitement to all participants. The smooth running of the program was, as always, credited to Mr. Krasinski and Mr. Wenrick whose close supervision and numerous hours of hard work and dedication made this year's intramurals one of the best ever. Mr. Wenrick and Mr. Krasinski were not the only faculty members to get involved, however. Other members such as Mr. Achille, Mr. Daeschner and Fr. Hahn helped in refereeing many of the basketball and volleyball games.

Soccer highlighted the fall intramural program and helped students ease into the realities of another academic year. Then after a long winter layoff, the spring brought with it intramural basketball, volleyball and waterpolo. These activities made the fourth quarter fly by, and for many Seniors it was their last chance to get involved in an extracurricular activity. Knowing this, over half of the Senior class participated in at least one of the four intramural sports.

Intramural sports helped to make the academic school year pass quickly by providing students with plenty of competition and excitement.

Senior Jamie DiNicola shows off his varsity form as he puts a move on a defender. Each team was permitted one varsity member to keep things fair and add to the excitement.

Junior John Schroeck and Senior Scott Lyons vie for the ball as four other players watch to see who gets possession. Intramural players were able to release their frustrations from school on the soccer field.

Prep Packs Powerful Punch

The Cathedral Prep boxing program enjoyed its second successful season under the direction of Mr. Joseph Wachter. He stepped into the ring stressing training and experience instead of random sparring and luck. His idea was to build a program in which all interested students could participate if they could take the practice sessions.

Practice started in the middle of January, twice a week for an hour and a half. Beginning in March practices increased to three times a week with more intense training. Assisting Mr. Wachter were Patrick Campbell and John Corella. Pat was in charge of calisthenics to get the boxers in shape while John worked on boxing finesse. Through their combined efforts the program earned its success.

The success of the program, of course, grew out of the fact that the phys-ed department willingly launched a viable program and that a willing faculty could be found to manage it. Any of the students participating in the program would be the first to attest to its rigorous training and self-discipline. That's why, according to Mr. Wachter, "anyone who finishes the program is a winner and makes Prep a winner too."

This year each of the matches held on April 15 boasted two winners. Everyone entering the ring won a trophy representing the hard work, pride and self-confidence that the program tried to foster.

The boxing team was also a kind of family that gave the members a sense of belonging. They worked together to attain the necessary skills to defend themselves in a ring. No one got cut from this program, and as Coach Wachter noted, all tried to "accomplish something one-on-one and prove to themselves that they belonged."

Senior Mike Siggia skips rope to improve his hand and foot coordination. Each boxer had to go through rugged training before he could step into the ring.

Boxing program director Mr. Joe Wachter holds the hard bag for one of his boxers. Mr. Wachter revitalized the program and it recovered its lost prestige.

Senior Bill Schnieder shows his form on the hard bag. He is one of the few veteran boxers as he boxed in the 80-81 program and he hoped to repeat his victory in this year's event.

T.A.C. Halloween Parties are never a dull event. Mike Fornelli mingles with Nannette Overfield after watching the apple bobbing contest.

ACTIVITIES

Prep Means More Than Academics

By the time the 3:20 dismissal bell rang, Prep students were fired up and raring to go. After what seemed like seven very long periods, Prep students were ready to participate in the many extra-curricular activities which the school provides. These activities ranged from action on the skiing slopes to strategy at the chess board. They allowed students a chance to deepen their friendships and begin new ones. Although the activities had their own goals and procedures, collectively they worked for one common objective: providing students with much needed hours of relaxation and the occasion for broadening their personal experiences.

The driving force behind this intense activity was, of course, the moderators, who coordinated and directed the programs.

Ski Club members use the T-bar to ascend the slopes at Peek N' Peak. New watchposts, built this year, were designed to keep skiers in the tracks and to insure safety.

Staff Struggles To Finish

The yearbook staff sprang into action early in the year with some new additions. Mrs. Dinn joined advisor Father Mark Nowak and the LITERULAE staff as the copy editor. Students got the extra help they needed in writing clear and more effective copy. Although most staff members produced their articles on time, there were still those frantic moments when a few stragglers tried to beat the clock "at the eleventh hour."

The Senior section and ads were only one day late, but the most difficult deadline — eighty pages of layouts due in mid-January — came ten days too soon. Learning from this harrowing experience, the staff plunged into the activities and sports sections a bit unnerved, but wiser. Consequently, the remainder of the deadlines were met.

The photography staff got an added boost when it received new darkroom equipment. Through a trade-in with Johnston Camera Shop, it acquired a new enlarger and timer which helped in the printing process. Lorei Studios also loaned the staff a new camera and accessories.

New personnel and new equipment were the key to the 1982 LITERULAE.

Summer Work Pays Off

THE RAMBLER, Cathedral Prep's monthly newspaper, had a very successful year. Working with a small staff of six Seniors and six Juniors, THE RAMBLER kept the school abreast of all the latest happenings in the political, athletic, and cultural worlds. The faculty moderator, Mr. James Scharrer, commented, "We tried to operate on a need-to-know basis. That is, we determined what it is that the students wanted to know, then we wrote on that subject."

This year the Seniors added something that they hope will become traditional: a first-day-of-school issue. They worked during the summer so that the paper would be ready when school opened. It went over well, as students were not only surprised but pleased to start school with information about what would occur during the year.

As with all school publications, there were some problems with photography. Most of these difficulties disappeared as the staff gained easier access to photographers and darkroom equipment.

Other than writing the articles, most of the staff did not have much more work to do with the paper. This was largely due to the quality of work done by their printer, Clinton Press. After the articles were written and taken to Clinton, most of the work was done. The only thing that remained was the organization of these articles.

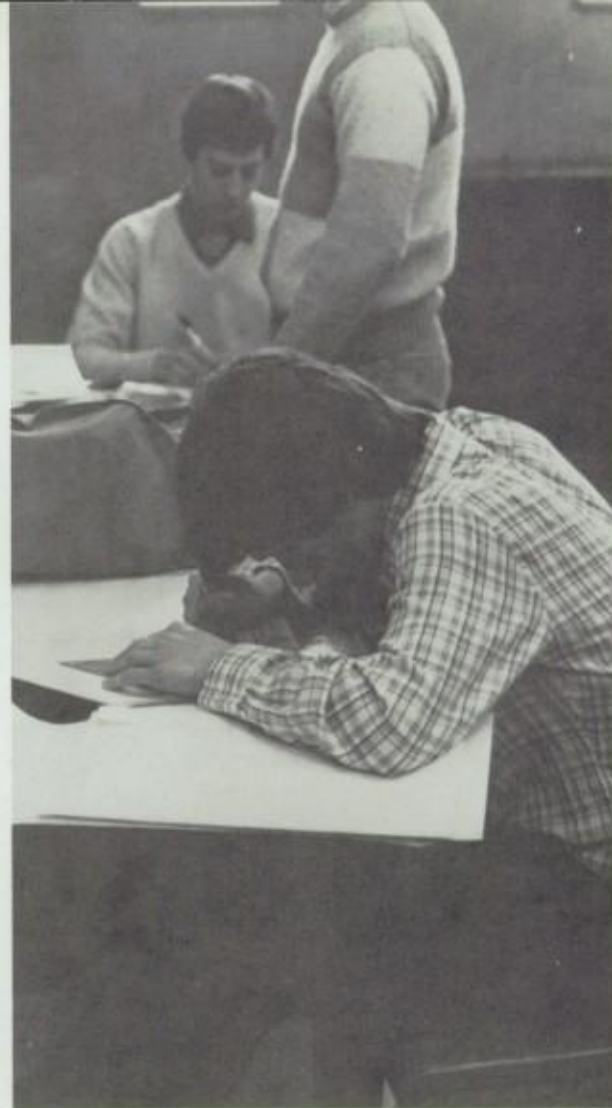

Editor-in-Chief Mark Wnukowski explained, "After we got the articles back from the printer we positioned them on paste-up sheets. We then measured the space that we had left for photos. We captioned the pictures, and then the final job of printing all of this — usually four pages — was left to Clinton."

NHS Lends Helping Hand

This year's National Honor Society displayed its service and commitment to Prep in a number of evident ways. Under the guidance and inspiration of Father Biebel the members responded enthusiastically to the call for help at the annual Fall Card Party where they gave ready and willing assistance besides setting up and dismantling tables and chairs. During the Open House held on the first Sunday in December they served as ushers and guides to prospective freshmen and their parents.

The National Honor Society was composed of the top 10 per cent from each of the upper classes on the basis of academic rank of the previous year.

Student Government representatives Doug Dalton, Mark Zappia and John Thompson help display the various prizes that were offered during this year's magazine drive. With their help Prep raised over $45,000.00.

SG Keeps Wheels Turning

How did Prep keep going without friction? Well, Student Government was a major lubricant. Elected by their class these twenty-four representatives and four vice presidents, coordinated by Father Biebel, helped this school year go smoothly.

The first thing Student Government worked on was the selecting of the film for movie day. It was 1941 and played for two full days on December 5 and 6. The proceeds helped the Seniors to build up their class treasury.

The second major project was the annual magazine drive. This year's goal was set at $40,000.00. Student Government kept motivation high, awarding prizes before and after school.

The third undertaking was the Valentine's Day Dance held on February 13, which raised money to defray the cost of bus trips and other school expenses.

If morale was high, the Student Government deserved a good part of the credit.

Preparation Pays Off For Debaters

Persistent summer work paid off for the debate team as they compiled perhaps their best season ever under the direction of Father Hahn. The varsity members participated at summer debate clinics at Georgetown University and Northwestern University while the rest of the team held weekly meetings during the summer to plan for the coming season.

This year the tournament schedule included invitationals in Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, and the National Championships in San Francisco. The debate topic this year was the Federal Government's involvement in education. Not only did the debaters gain valuable experience from the mental sparring with their opponents, but through their meeting with other students from various parts of the country they also broadened their social life.

The Senior tandem of John Bu, who is also the president of the team, and Jeff Abbate compiled an outstanding record of tournament victories while being ranked as the top team in the state and one of the best in the nation. Outstanding underclassmen guaranteed that the winning tradition will continue in the future.

Prep Speakers

Gain Finesse

The Speech Club offered its members a wide range of experiences. Like the debate club, it came under the category of forensic discipline in the school's extra-curricular program. In this club the members enjoyed many opportunities to improve their speaking ability. Through their efforts in practical speaking the members became more assertive and confident of their own ability. Each time they appeared in a tournament they became more accustomed to performing before an audience.

As members of the Speech Club students were able to participate in three types of oratory. In the Oral Interpretation of Literature they memorized prose or poetry and interpreted their selections through facial expressions, minimal gestures and vocal inflection. The Extemporaneous Category required the members to prepare and present a five-to-seven-minute speech on a topic assigned only shortly before delivery. In the Original Oratory section the members wrote a persuasive or informative speech on a topic of their choice which lasted seven to ten minutes.

The benefits of the Speech Club went beyond the individuals' mastery of clear and concise self-expression. The members also enjoyed extensive travel and valuable social relationships. Prep itself enjoyed the benefit of new additions in the trophy display case plus wide recognition as a forensic power.

Model UN Tackles Issues

To anyone observing the annual Model United Nations General Assembly at Gannon University, the coordination of the project appeared to be effortless. But those behind the scenes knew about the many hours of study, discussion and debate that went into such a smooth operation.

Classes were barely under way in September when Mr. Lesniewski, the moderator of the Prep delegation, had the students totally involved in preparing for Gannon University's 29th Model United Nations meeting in mid-November. This year the Prep students represented the government of Niger of the African bloc. Such timely issues as seabed mining, international terrorism and the rights of disabled persons were debated and resolved. The Prep delegation consisted of nine Seniors and three Juniors.

Schools Seek Joint Solutions

Prep sent four delegates to the Student Forum at the Northwest Tri-county Intermediate meeting of concerned high school students. The Prep representatives included two Seniors, Tony Sala and Greg Campbell; and two Juniors, Dan Teed and Bill Kelly.

After the initial meeting the representatives met with their counterparts from other area schools on the second Tuesday of each month to discuss student problems and possible solutions.

At the meetings the representatives split into three groups with the goal of improving school spirit and getting the most productivity out of student government. Student Forum this year gave Prep students the chance to offer their views to local schools. Prep learned how other schools functioned and how it could improve itself.

Stage Crew

Takes A Bow

The audiences applauding the performers in Prep's productions were often unaware of the hidden contributions of the men behind the scenes.

The stage crew was responsible for preparing the auditorium for all events such as rallies, quarter sessions, band performances and class meetings. The crew's duties at these events included arranging chairs on stage, operating curtains, checking microphones and regulating lighting. The crew was also responsible for seating arrangements and backdrops used by the band in their performances. It was basically because of the stage crew's efforts that the year's productions ran so smoothly.

The Bowling Club, moderated by Mrs. Hill and Father Przepierski, had another outstanding season. The high scorers and top three teams received trophies for superior performance.

Once again the rivalry between Mrs. Hill and Father Przepierski provided an extra feature that helped spark the competition. But all rivalry was set aside when the annual bowling banquet was held during the second week of May.

Racquetball

Rebounds

The Racquetball Club met at 9:00 every Saturday morning at the Blessed Sacrament gymnasium. Through constant practice and dedication to their sport, the club members improved their performance and had a good time doing so.

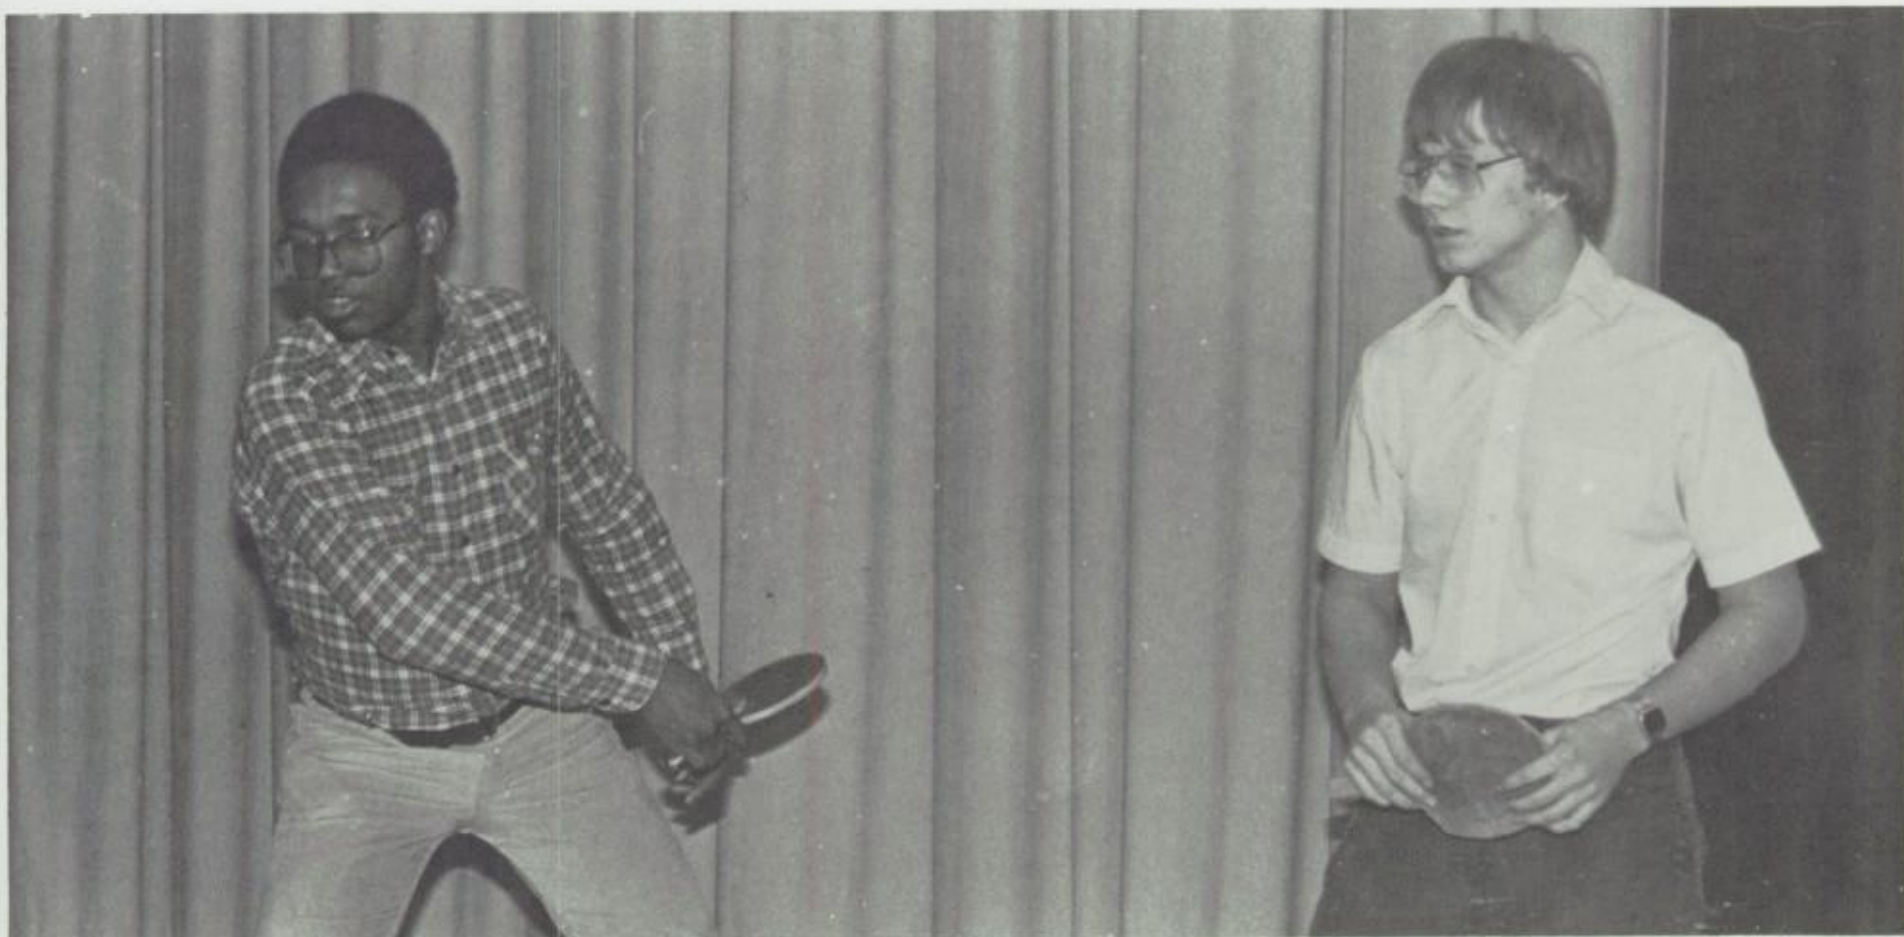

Father Amy moderated the club and willingly shared his expertise. The club offered its members, a total of thirteen enthusiasts, a place and time to enjoy their favorite sport.

Ping-Pong

Club Grows

The 1981-82 Ping-Pong Club, which met a couple of times a week, had an outstanding season. Under the leadership of Father Amy, the club experienced considerable growth to a membership of twenty students. Highlighting the year was a tournament to choose the top player of the club.

Devoted was the word used to describe Mr. Krasinski. Besides organizing and refereeing intramural sports, he also set up and moderated the Rifle Club. The sharpshooters met for target practice every Saturday from noon till three in Prep's indoor track. The club consisted of fifteen members.

Winning with Strategy

In 1981-82 the Chess and War Games Club had one of its most exciting years. The club held chess tournaments that pitted Prep students against each other. The club members elected Junior Don Bernardo as president. Mr. Howells, moderator of the club, said the game of chess provided students with the opportunity to use strategy to outsmart their opponents. The main objective of the Chess and War Games Club was to allow students to test their ability to think logically and deliberately. This goal Mr. Howells felt was satisfactorily achieved.

German Spanish-Italian

German Club

Diversifies

The 1981-1982 German Club was, once again, very active. Its football team competed respectably in the Language Club League with a record of 3-1. It also held its own in water polo and volleyball.

Sports, however, were not the only activities of the club members. While reminiscing about their trip to Germany last summer, they began planning for another journey in the summer of 1983. All the German students enjoyed lavishly decorating the classroom for Christmas. The students also completed projects dealing with Germany. These projects ranged from models of German planes and cars to reports dealing with Hitler, Germany's part in World War Two, and life customs in Germany. The fundraising served a dual purpose. Money was raised and so was the German spirit among the students, because of the kind of items sold. The items, including pens, T-shirts, buttons, jerseys, keychains and stickers, were all printed with German sayings.

Academically, the club also left its mark. This was the first time in five years that a German III class was held. These German III students learned a great deal about German culture and read many German stories and anecdotes. A refresher course was also included in the third year's regimen which covered all aspects of the German language.

Language Club

Sets Goals

The Italian-Spanish Club attracted students who enjoyed competing with other clubs in intramural football. During the club's monthly meetings students furthered their knowledge of the social and cultural ways of the Italian and Spanish-speaking peoples. Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Forsten took turns moderating the club. With the goal of introducing students to the lifestyles of a foreign nation, Mrs. Hill scheduled a summer European excursion to include stops in Italy and Spain.

Latin Club Is Alive And Well

The Champs of the Language Club Football Program! That's right, the Latin Club, under the direction of Dr. Bernadette Hilinski, showed off its laurels after defeating its Teutonic rival, the German Club. When the football season ended, the club members turned to mental sparring at the Scrabble board where they compiled words in Latin rather than English. Like their other language counterparts, the Latin Club members also enjoyed this painless method of improving their vocabulary.

This year the club saw a filmstrip on Rome and enjoyed a slide show presented by Sister Dorothy, O.S.B. which also featured the Eternal City. In their more carefree moments, the students sang Latin songs put to the melody of popular American tunes. Thus "Moon River" became "Rhine River" and Caesar's Gallic feats were once again extolled. To show the influence of Latin on the terminology of modern science, business and industry, the club compiled a brochure on the subject.

Such creative projects proved unmistakably that Latin at Cathedral Prep is far from being "a dead language."

Skiers Beat Winter Blahs

What do 110 men of Prep do on those cold, snowbound nights in winter? Ski, of course! The fun on the slopes increased this year because the weather cooperated and brought many snow storms to the area and Peek n' Peak in particular. Also with the closing of the Sugarshack Bar many skiers devoted more time to skiing instead of socializing indoors.

Another added attraction on the slopes was the mini stereo headphone sets playing either cassette or AM-FM radio. Music was no longer limited to the scope of the loudspeakers in the lift areas; now many skiers schussed all over the slopes to the music of AC/DC, Rush, Go-Go's, and others.

Some doubted that there was such a thing as fake snow, but to those who frequented the Peak the sight of artificial snow was taken pretty much for granted. Peek n' Peak had two snow-making guns to supplement nature's quota. When the temperature got below 25° Fahrenheit, the guns produced an artificial powder which made a fine skiing base. Having learned from past bruising experience, the Prep skiers deliberately avoided close encounters with this equipment.

Since Prep was not the only ski club that traveled to the Peak on Wednesdays, the occasions were social as well as athletic. The Peak came to be a meeting ground for new friends, old friends, boy friends and girl friends.

Getting from Prep to the slopes was no big problem. Prep used two Blue Bird Coach Line buses which departed from Prep at 3:40. Travel time to the Peak varied due to the weather or road conditions but averaged forty-five minutes. Generally the contingent reached the doors at Prep around 10:45 P.M. Those students who wanted more flexible schedules traveled in their own cars.

With ample snow and colder-than-usual temperatures Prep's ski enthusiasts had little difficulty "thinking snow." This was nearly a flawless season on the slopes.

Chorus Sings Again

Through the promotional efforts of Father Dollinger and the musical direction of Mr. Roy Franzaglia, the Prep Chorus was revived in the 1981-82 academic year. In years previous scheduling problems and lack of enthusiasm hindered the revival of the Chorus. This year, however, anyone with doubts about the Chorus's existence had only to walk past the band room on any odd-numbered school day and hear the voices of the dedicated students resounding in the area.

Some of the songs rendered at the beginning of the year were "Those Were the Days," "One of Those Songs," "America the Beautiful," and "Eternal Father." During the second quarter the Chorus made its debut before the general public. On December 2 it sang in the Cathedral at "A Service of Lessons and Carols" before an appreciative audience.

After twelve dormant years the revival of the Chorus was a welcomed rebirth. Only after hearing the clear voices of these young men once again, did one realize how much this part of Prep had been truly missed.

Band Has Reason To Toot Its Horn

Marching in a parade or at a half-time show the Band looks snappy. In parade formation, the Band marches up State Street toward the Stadium as the host band for the Giuseppe Manzini Society's Columbus Day Parade.

To everyone's delight the Prep Band under the direction of Mr. Roy Fronzaglia enjoyed its most successful year.

The year began with a Second Place title and honors for the "Best Color Guard" at the Fortieth Annual West Virginia Strawberry Festival. Enthusiasm grew with the influx of eighteen new musicians and was capped by being one of four high school bands selected to represent the United States at Vienna, Austria.

With such a goal before it, the Band went into full gear during the summer months, trying to raise the necessary funds to make this dream a reality. Meanwhile the Band performed at the opening day of the new Erie Cardinals Baseball Team, at the West Erie Plaza Festival and at a competition in Westfield, New York.

Further momentum was attained in August when the Band spent an intense week playing and learning at Camp Judson in North Springfield, Pennsylvania. After that the Band practiced and performed non-stop. It proudly represented Prep at competitions in North East; Westfield, New York; McDowell; Edinboro; and Tonawanda, New York. At Tonawanda the Band captured three trophies: First Place in the Show, Best Majorettes and Best Drum Major.

The Alumni Band also made its first appearance in 1981. This organization met with the intention of performing annually with the Marching Band during a football half-time show.

Spring brought the most challenging performance schedule in Prep Band history. The Concert Band entertained crowds at twelve performances while the Jazz Band, besides playing at rallies and at games, had a whirlwind tour of three performances in one day. The Marching Band hosted Erie's Saint Patrick's Day Parade and marched in many other area events. Prep also hosted the Annual Bands-in-the-Round Concert which included bands from Harborcreek, Iroquois and Seneca High Schools.

All in all 1981-82 proved to be one of the landmark years in Prep Band history. So it was no surprise that when new members gathered for tryouts in April they were a bit awed at the thought of joining such an elite group.

The Band snaps to attention in preparation for the playing of the National Anthem at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Erie's newly renovated stadium was filled with the sounds and sights of the Marching Ramblers.

In perfect formation the majorette line marches onto the playing field as the Band forms for the kickoff of another performance.

Senior Steve Bebko leads the trumpet section in one of the Band's show numbers. The Band has acquired a brassier "drum corps" sound in the past few years.

We're Off To Vienna

Last spring the Prep Band was nominated by Dr. Stanley Michalski, Dean of Music at Clarion State College, to represent the United States at the prestigious Eleventh Annual International Youth and Music Festival in Vienna, Austria. After consultation with Father Dollinger, and meetings with the Bandstanders and their director Mr. Roy Fronzaglia, the Band decided to accept the opportunity. Because it was one of only four bands to represent the United States at Vienna, the Band considered the invitation a great honor.

The total cost of this venture was $145,000.00, one-third of which the bandmembers paid themselves. A generous $30,000.00 was donated by the public, including grants from the Erie Arts Council and the Erie Community Foundation. The remaining $65,000.00 plus was raised by the students and their parents, through various fund-raising events such as submarine and candy sales, a phone-a-thon, a radio-a-thon aired live from the Millcreek Mall, a shopping spree, a Christmas concert and many other viable projects. Through the support of the community and the bandmembers themselves, the fund-raising goal was eventually realized and the Band was able to participate in the two week festival in Vienna.

A special donation was given by the Frank Kuzma family in memory of their son Jim who was an alumnus of the Band. This generous donation sponsored one bandmember in his quest for Vienna. Donations such as this dramatized the support and the allegiance of the Prep community to its band.

The dedication of the Prep community was paralleled by the dedication of the Band to achieve the level of excellence that this honor required. The many hours of practice coupled with enthusiasm, hard work and sacrifice molded the Band into a unified spirit ready to express itself in a masterful performance.

The hard work of the Band did not go unrecognized. Citations from the City and County governments honored the Band, and the House and Senate of Pennsylvania proclaimed the Prep Band as the "Official Musical Ambassadors to the Vienna Festival." Even the Governor of Pennsylvania, Richard Thornburg, awarded the Band a special citation.

True to its motto "Pride, Spirit and Unity" the Band brought special recognition and satisfaction to the entire Prep family. And music lovers in distant Vienna learned something from our musical ambassadors about America, Pennsylvania, Erie and, above all, Prep.

A salute and a snap to attention by the percussion section and the beaming majorettes bring loud acclamation from the crowd witnessing the competition show of the Band. The Band has won many honors since the beginning of competition four years ago.

The flair of the rifle squad and the snapping banners help give the Band's parade formations style and an air of excitement.

One of the many donations to the Band for their Vienna trip was given by the Frank Kuzma family in memory of their son Jim, who was a member of the Band.

TAC Members

Prove They Care

Within Prep there was a club that served both the community and the students. This club, the Teenage Action Club, strove to foster within its members a sense of Christian responsibility by helping others. Through this caring the students also gained valuable social experience themselves. The club offered Prep students the opportunity to meet other people, including students from St. Ben's, Villa, Mercyhurst, and St. Mark's. These five schools all worked together to further the cause of Christian responsibility within the community.

TAC began the year by sponsoring a Putt-Putt party in an attempt to gain new members and to start the year on a relaxed note. In October the club sponsored a Halloween costume party at Prep. Before the party, members went from door to door to collect money for the Sarah Reed Center, and the money they collected was their entrance fee to an evening of ghouls and goblins. The money raised, according to Prep student representative Jim Bird, amounted to $1400.00, an impressive sum that the Sarah Reed Home gratefully accepted for its work with disturbed children.

During the first weeks of November TAC members sold Fireside Raffle Tickets for a Lazy Boy recliner. Through this project the club collected over $2500.00 which was later distributed among various local charities. On December 3, TAC held a Coffee House Dance which featured a performance by Prep's own guitarist, Mike Wehrer. Even though the money raised from this project was minimal, the students had the opportunity to meet new people in a relaxed atmosphere.

When Christmas arrived the club went caroling at Hamot Medical Center, Rondale Nursing Home and several other area institutions where their singing and cheer brought new light and hope to some lonely people. "Such experiences," said Jim Bird, "point up precisely what TAC is all about: giving to others and, in turn, receiving far more than you give."

The 320 Prep students who were members of TAC comprised only a fraction of the total membership. The club was set up seven years ago by Prep's Father Barletta and the late Bill Daily. They sensed then that there was a need for an organization which could bring people together in a non-athletic and non-academic situation. TAC offered students from different schools the opportunities to meet each other and get involved in worthwhile projects. The fact that Prep's Father Barletta and Father Gmerek acted as the club moderators and three Prep students served as officers made Prep the backbone of the organization. Senior Lon Pierce was the club's president; Greg Andera, treasurer; and Jim Bird, Prep student representative.

The efforts of these dedicated students and the guidance provided by the faculty moderators were the key ingredients that went into making the year so successful for the club.

On The Air

The High-Q league, composed of sixteen teams from area high schools was sponsored by Gannon University and the Manufacturers Association of Erie. Gannon's Director of Academic Affairs, Paul W. Peterson, was responsible for organizing and judging the competition. This program offered students practice in listening, concentration and mental recall.

Using quiz guides containing over 1500 questions, the moderators, Fathers Hahn, Nowak, and Amy, psyched the participants for the event. The eight students on the Prep team, four varsity members and four alternates, had the chance to win scholarships to Gannon if they fared well in the competition.

Through the cooperation of the City Cable Network, Cablevision of Erie, the matches were broadcast to a larger viewing audience.

Added Notes

"Awesome!" That's the word to describe this year — awesome in every sense of the word: dreadful and wonderful.

On the dreadful side of the ledger this was the year that the grading system was changed bringing many problems. With different quality points given to each grade, class ranking had to be realigned.

This was the year when Prep's sports calendar was crippled not by team injuries or by weather problems but by the tug-of-war between the Erie School Board and the Erie teachers. This was the year when even the stalwart men of Prep were forced to miss a day of classes due to the drifting snows and sub-zero arctic blasts. This was the year when the same weather conditions took their toll of the stately maple at the corner of 10th and Myrtle. The maple, in turn, took its toll of the coping atop the science wing.

On the wonderful side of the ledger the year was awesome for Prep's athletic achievements. This was the year when both the football and swimming teams clinched the Metro title. This was the year when the bus trips to Prep's basketball games were proud and exciting events. This was the year when Mr. Rogers highlighted the football rallies with his genteel neighbors and his helmeted kazoo band. The basketball rallies were charged with even more enthusiasm as the ale-guzzling

This was the year when the Student Government's social events included the first Valentine's Dance and the Belushi movie 1941 that brought rave reviews from the students and raised eyebrows from the faculty.

This was the year when the Debate and Speech Teams returned to Prep weighted with trophies to make this forensic season one of the most successful in their history.

This was the year when the students once again topped their $40,000 magazine drive goal. Reaching this goal brought special satisfaction to the Class of 1982 and became a reminder to the Underclass that when Prep sets its goals, it meets them.

Contributors to this year's LITERULAE were Fr. Dollinger, the Assistant Headmasters, the Prep Faculty, Lorei Studios, Mehler's Formal Wear, Dr. James Dinn, Johnston's Camera Shop, Tom Chaffee of the Herff Jones Co. and the patient families of the students on the staff.

UNDERCLASS

Diversity

Dominates

The Underclass of 1981-82 — how could one describe them? "Diverse" might be the best term. Underclassmen played an important part in every activity and happening at Prep. They were at the games, the mixers, the meetings, and the Masses. They participated in sports from football to golf, from swimming to hockey. They supported the fund raisers, from the magazine drive to the festival. They were members in all the clubs and organizations participating in out-of-school activities, and, of course, they spent most of their time together in the classes and events of the school days. The following is their story.

Alike-ly Story

We look the same to begin,
And we're also the closest of kin.
We were born the same day,
And talk the same way,
'Cause we're each other's identical twin.

Something really amazing occurred at Prep this year. There were three sets of identical twins enrolled in the Freshman class: James and John Karnes, James and John Lizotte, and James and Joseph Gavio. These six students agreed that having an identical twin was quite a special situation, one having advantages and disadvantages.

When asked about the advantages to being identical twins, "Tricking people" was the first answer. The Gavios, for instance, switched classes with each other at Saint George's for an entire day, but the teachers never found out! Some of the confusion is not preplanned, however. James Lizotte said his brother's friends "always come up the hall and say something to me, thinking I'm he, but I don't understand what they're talking about!" There were other advantages, too, such as always having someone with whom to play a game, complete homework assignments, or share your thoughts, but the twins were quick to point out that all was not fun and games in their life.

Some of the identical brothers experienced a loss of identity. John Lizotte explained that "Being a twin, you are always compared to your other half. I don't like that. I would rather be considered an individual and not just 'one of the twins.'" Mix-ups are also common in the twins' lives. Joe Gavio, for example, won an award, but it was mistakenly given to his brother. Often, one boy will get blamed for something his brother has done.

The twins have not experienced too many problems in school, aside from being called "clones" once in a while. They learned long ago to ignore remarks such as these. One thing that did bother these boys was the inane questions students asked them. Jim Karnes stated, "They keep asking if we are twins, and when we say, 'Yes,' they ask if we are brothers!" At this point you may be wondering if there is more in common among these identical twins than meets the eye. The answer is an emphatic "Yes!"

The Gavio brothers have exactly the same prescription for their eyeglasses. Even the doctor could not believe it. Some of the twins reported that they think the same thoughts, like the same girls, share the same interests, and react the same way in many situations. John Karnes even reported that he and his brother ranked the same on a major SAT test, and, although they sat on opposite sides of the room, they missed the same questions on the test! They certainly had not cheated!

The twins have had many strange experiences in their lives because of their likenesses. John Karnes, for instance, was once in a hospital in Anaheim, California. Jim went to visit him and was spotted by an astonished intern who exclaimed, "Boy, you healed quickly!"

Even here at Prep, the confusion took place. Joe Gavio was seen walking down the hall to his class on the third floor. One minute later, "Joe" — it was really Jim — was seen strolling down a first floor corridor. Baffled students wondered how Joe ever made it to class on time when he was going the wrong way on the wrong floor! These six students must do a great deal of explaining.

Although all of these boys concurred that there are times when they wish they were not identical twins, they all agreed that having a brother who looks like them is something very special. In the words of John Lizotte, "Science can not do that, only God can."

If I Had Known

If I had known what trouble you were bearing;
 What griefs were in the silence of your face;
 I would have been more gentle, and more caring,
 And tried to give you gladness for a space.
 I would have brought more warmth into the place,
 If I had known.

If I had known what thoughts despairing drew you;
 (Why do we never try to understand?)
 I would have lent a little friendship to you,
 And slipped my hand within your hand,
 And made your stay more pleasant in this land,
 If I had known. (Mary Carolyn Davies)

The Cube Craze

Sophomores Joe Stanganelli, Paul Fries, Shawn Esser, and Martin Lester take part in the newest craze sweeping the country, the Rubik's Cube. They, along with many other Prepsters, have been seen playing this enjoyable game in classes, study halls, and sometimes even at lunch.

This year's driver instruction course provides Mr. Kordich and students like Rick Rehberg with many hours of instructional fun. For a fee students gain experience behind the wheel, a chance to get lower insurance rates and a senior license at age seventeen.

Everyone Needs A Little "Diversion"

If you are an average high school student, chances are that at one time or another you have plunked down a quarter for a game of pinball. Pinball gained its popularity with teenagers back in the mid-1950's, and today it is more popular than ever, thanks to new electronic innovations. These innovations, such as digital playboards, made the game more exciting for both the amateur and the so-called "wizard."

If you walked by 124 West Ninth during non-school hours, most likely you found many Prepsters inside. This establishment was not like any other; it was neither an eating place nor a store. Only one thing was found here — Diversions, one of the newest pinball and video arcades in the area.

Diversions became an instant success with Prep students because of its close proximity to the school. Students could go there and escape their problems and release their frustrations. They left the real world on the doorstep and entered into worlds where they fought for survival and for some, glory. But even if they "died," it only cost a quarter to start fresh and fight again. They piloted space ships without ever leaving the ground. They participated in life-or-death struggles with grotesque monsters and not a hair on their head was harmed. As Don Legler, a Sophomore at Prep put it, "It's a great place to go after school because you can have a good time without getting into trouble."

The video-wave made a big splash at Prep, thanks to Diversions, and because of it an old song from the depression-era has made a come back, although slightly altered it read, "Brother, can you spare a quarter?"

Junior Leadership Promotes Unity

Back Row: Mr. David Wenrick, Mr. Lawrence Krasinsky, Advisors.

This year the leaders of the Junior class tried to move the class into yet another phase of growth. During the Freshman year the goal was to get the students acquainted with each other, and in the Sophomore year the students began to work in unison. This year the issue was raising money — money that will be needed for a Senior class to succeed. Keeping a spirit of unity was also a high priority of the president and other class officers.

The class officers believed in the Juniors' potential for success. The Juniors maintained quite high academic standards this year and, on the average, scored better on the PSAT's than last year's Junior class. This proved very beneficial in this most important academic year. The president and vice-president agreed that any credit for the class's success should go to all the members of the class.

No Lack Of Jobs For Under- classmen

A survey taken this past year to determine what percentage of underclassmen had jobs uncovered some surprising statistics. Despite a weakened economy, the average Prep student discovered that jobs were available.

Out of approximately 150 underclassmen interviewed, one-third did have part-time jobs. The average freshman worked approximately four to six hours per week, while sophomores put in about thirteen hours. Juniors carried an even heavier work schedule, doubling the sophomore figures.

Freshmen and sophomores were most likely to be employed around the house or on a paper route. Sophomore Phil Dre-galla stated that being a paperboy "gets you out into the public and you meet new people." Others noted the carrier's advantage of being his own boss.

Juniors most often found work in a grocery store or restaurant. Although food was the apparent common denominator, the real reason for the pattern seemed to be the availability of jobs in these two lines of business.

Most working students agreed with Junior Douglas Christenson that keeping grades up required extra effort. But they felt that the work experience and the money earned were worth the added exertion.
